Beautiful Prosperity.
Reality, or Myth?
A Happy Stowaway.
Germans Work Hard.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

ACCORDING to Mr. Raskob and other Republicans, converted to Democracy, our prosperity is "a myth." It is a pleasant myth for many, including owners of 24,000,000 automobiles now running in this country, and buyers of 5,000,000 odd new cars made in 1928.

President Coolidge says prosperity is real. He told his Cabinet, on Tuesday, that conditions are even better than they were a year ago. The fact that a national election has caused no setback, most unusual occurrence, pleases him.

Also, the President says Government revenues collected next March will exceed all estimates, and make any deficit impossible.

Absence of business disturbance in this election is due partly to the fact that both candidates please big business.

There are also cold facts and figures that disturb the "myth" theory. Today's distributions of dividends an interest will total $350,000,000 in cash, a new November record, to say nothing of large stock dividends, as good as cash, and not subject to income tax.

Many will say, "If our prosperity is a myth, please don't disturb the myth."

And Mr. Sloan, president of General Motors, hints of "a pleasant surprise" awaiting stockholders of his company.

When Mr. Sloan, practical man, says "pleasant surprise," he means money, or stock dividend. That's another part of the prosperity "myth."

The meaning of the word "prosperity" is often misunderstood.

It is not limited to those with millions, wondering how they will reinvest money paid them today.

Prosperity is important because it involves the happiness of the whole people.

It means sending children to high school, instead of sending them to work.

It means an automobile, to be enjoyed by the whole family, old people, especially.

Prosperity means freedom from worry, better civilization, happier mothers, able to give their children what they need.

And this country is prosperous.

The great Zeppelin, barring accidents, will have circled over Paris, to let France see what the German Republic can do, and will be safe home, at Friedrichshafen before you read this.

The French will not fail to think hard, as they see that weight-carrying airship above their greatest city.

Young Terhune, the stowaway caddie on the airship, knows, by now, that it pays to be audacious. He says to this newspaper's correspondent on the airship: "I don't care if they send me home in irons, I am satisfied."

The boy will find fame and large earnings awaiting him in Germany. Hotels are anxious to entertain him, free of charge, and German movie managers await him with fine cash offers. He will screen well. courage always does.

Bacon, in his essay on "Boldness," writes: "There is in human nature generally more of the fool than of the wise; and therefore those faculties by which the foolish part of men's minds is taken are more potent.

"Wonderful like is the case of boldness in civil business. What first? Boldness. What second and third? Boldness * * * It doth fascinate, and bind hand and foot those that are neither shallow in judgment, or weak in courage, which are the greatest part. Yea, and prevaileth with wise men at times."

Ninety per cent of business and political success is boldness. And 90 per cent of failure is rashness.

Having proved Zeppelin success, across the Atlantic, Germany's engineers and builders are now testing huge hydro-airplanes, destined for ocean flights.

These air giants, weighing 20,000 pounds, loaded. start from the water in 14 seconds.

For a nation forbidden by the Versailles treaty to build a hostile air fleet, Germany is doing well. She leads the world, by a wide margin, in commercial aircraft.

And commercial aircraft can drop TNT and poison gas, quite easily.

An emergency board, named by President Coolidge to consider railroad wages, suggests 6½ per cent increase for 66,000 trainmen. That is another straw in the wind of prosperity, and welcome. Railroad men are underpaid, from top to bottom, especially conductors, engineers and others bearing the main load of responsibility.

FLAPPERS IN BALLOT 'FRAUD'

Twelve illegally registered new voters, a number of them "flappers," were discovered today on the Boston supplementary list by a crew of nine investigators working at the State House bureau of vital statistics.

The investigators are matching birth records and registration age listings of new voters, under direction of the "committee for a fair election" of the Massachusetts division, Hoover-Curtis Lawyers' Association.

Several thousand registrations were checked in the finding of the 12 voters whose ages actually are less than the necessary 21 years.

Zepps Need Greater Motors, Says Chief

By DR. HUGO ECKENER

Commander of the Graf Zeppelin

Aboard Graf Zeppelin, Oct. 31—Our trip to America, particularly the return flight, has demonstrated that dirigibles will have to be speedier. However, our trip, both ways, would have been more satisfactory if we had not been so much at the mercy of hostile winds.

Monday night off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, we were caught by an 85-mile-an-hour wind and carried far off our course. Despite the vigorous efforts of our motors to combat the storm we were carried off into fog banks and did not know if we were over land or sea for several hours. We were carried nearly 150 nautical miles north of our course.

The Zeppelins of the future will have to have more powerful engines to combat such a situation.

The fact that we outrode a storm of those proportions, however, shows that the construction of the Zeppelin is basically

THOUSANDS IN FRENZY WELCOME ZEPPELIN ON RETURN TO HOME PORT

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 1—With all the world lauding her feat, the Graf Zeppelin, the first transatlantic passenger and mail air-liner, was back in her hangar today, enthusiastically welcomed, after smashing all records for a transatlantic crossing by lighter than air craft on her return flight from Lakehurst, N. J.

The huge silver-sheened ship first appeared over the airfield here today at 4:46 a. m. (10:46 p. m. E. S. T.). She had covered the 4000 miles from Lakehurst in 68 hours and 52 minutes at an average speed of slightly less than 60 miles an hour

With 24 passengers, her crew of 40 and one stowaway safely aboard, she cruised about over the field more than two hours while thousands below wildly shouted and sang themselves hoarse.

After slowly nosing downward, landing ropes were dropped from the ship at 7:02 a. m. (1:02 a. m. E. S. T.). She was brought to earth easily by a ground crew of several hundred and pushed safely into her hangar at 7:06 a. m. 1:06 a. m. E. S. T.), 71 hours and 13 minutes after starting from Lakehurst.

'SPIRIT LOVE' GIRL BARES PACT IN 'FIRE SACRIFICE'

Lake Forest, Ill., Nov. 1—"There was a pact . . . a pact that one of us . . . did not go through with . . . so I went alone. . . ."

These stumbling words, through tortured, fire-seared lips, pretty Alfrieda Knaak haltingly whispered today from a hospital cot as the first definite clue that there had been a second party to her perhaps fatal burning "psychic rite" in the basement of the police station at Lake Blueff, where she was found, her arms, legs and head horribly burned.

This was the first time that the high school teacher and co-ed admitted that her attempt at self-immolation was inspired by other than her own emotional impulse of exaltation to "purify herself by fire.

New York, Nov. 1—The close of Governor Smith's campaign for the presidency probably will be the most colorful and spectacular New York has ever seen.

Always a whirlwind finisher in his campaigns, the Governor and his aides were busy today with plans for a rousing "whoopee" finish that will make history.

A parade tomorrow and two speeches will comprise the main program.

The parade tomorrow will be from the Battery to Central Park, the same route over which so many notables, including Lindbergh, have ridden through showers of ticker

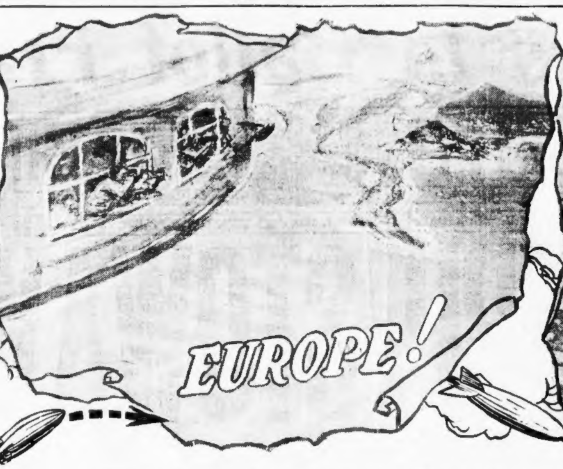
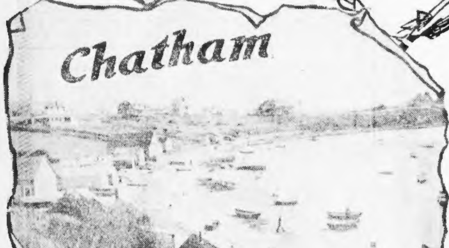
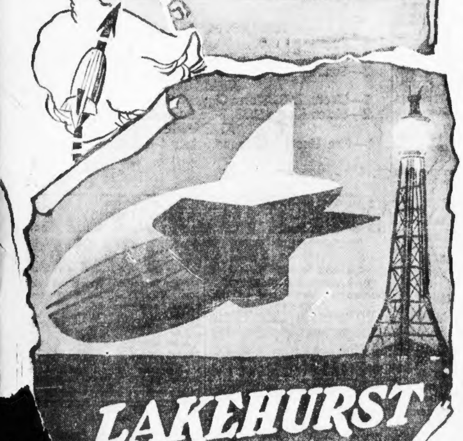
Graf Zeppelin's Speedy Homeward Flight as Only Exclusive Photos Can Illustrate It







FROM AMERICA TO GERMANY IN THREE DAYS

Drawings by Prof. Ludwig Dettman (C), 1928, in United States and all countries other than Continental Europe by King Features Syndicate, Inc. (C), Continental Europe by August Scherl, G. M. B. H., from International Newsreel.

These photos and drawings illustrate some of the interesting features of the giant Graf Zeppelin's flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen, Germany, her second successful transatlantic flight. They show also some of the places that the dirigible passed over.

SAYS ZEPP APPEALS TO WOMEN

By MRS. CLARA ADAMS

Only Woman Passenger Aboard the Graf Zeppelin.

(Copyright, 1928, in the United States and all countries other than Continental Europe by the New York American, Inc., and King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part. Copyright Continental Europe by August Scherl, G. M. B. R., and by Ullstein.)

Aboard Graf Zeppelin, Nov. 1—The average American woman is going to like dirigible travel across the Atlantic. I think it will appeal to her sense of pioneering and adventure. During the next few years, of course, it will be open only to the wealthy woman and to those of that number who have the courage to defy the opposition of relatives.

The ride above the ocean surely opens new vistas of life for the average woman. It will give her a new spiritual outlook as well as a new physical outlook to drift high above the Seven Seas.

Speaking as a practical woman and realizing that all my sisters are wondering just what sort of a wardrobe one wears for such an expedition, here are the suggestions that I would make to any woman contemplating a transatlantic airship journey. She should wear knee-high, fur-lined boots and woolen hose. Her clothing should be warm, but not too bulky.

She should include in her kit a camel's hair sleeping bag and, if possible, a lap robe and chemical heat bags. This, of course, will only apply until heating systems are perfected for dirigibles. Then there will be no more trouble for the woman traveler than there is on a ship.

My presence aboard the Zeppelin was foretold to me in a sharply defined vision in the Astor Hotel in New York, on Wednesday night of last week. I had hoped to go, but did not know for sure that my application would be accepted.

Then a voice spoke to me and told me that I was going and to make my preparations and to say nothing to anyone.

I decided to go home to Tannersville and prepare to sail. Early next morning, I telephoned to Hugh Allen of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation and he informed me that my application for a passage had been accepted.

$343,000 MADE BY ZEPPELIN ROUND TRIP

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—The revenue earned by the Graf Zeppelin on her round trip from Germany was estimated today at $343,000.

What part of this is profit is uncertain. Dr. Hugo Eckener estimated the expenses for the round trip would be $100,00, but repairs to the damaged fin undoubtedly raised this considerably.

The estimate of revenue is based on the assumption that 18 of the passengers on the trip to the United States and 20 of the 24 passengers on the return voyage paid the full fare of $3000. Since Dr. Eckener estimated the revenue before the start at approximately $100,050, it is assumed that several of the passengers who traveled in more or less official capacities did not pay the full rate.

Taking the figure of 38 passengers at $3000 each the total fare would be $114,000. Mail and express brought from Germany added $70,000 more. Freight carried on the return voyage paid $1105, while the revenue from the 54 sacks of mail was $75,713.50.

A large part of the revenue came from the sale of exclusive rights for publication of stories from the ship, an American syndicate paying $67,400 for this privilege and two German newspapers $16,600.

The mail carried on the return voyage included 49746 letters and 51,938 postcards, the most valuable mail cargo in point of postage ever handled by air.

National Zeppelin Fund Planned for New Hangar

Frankfurt, Ger., Nov. 1 (INS)—Prominent residents of this city today proposed a national "Zeppelin fund" to be raised by popular subscription to build a bigger hangar for the Graf. It is suggested that it be movable so that it can be turned in accordance with the direction of the wind.

SLEPT ON ZEPP IN GALE

By COMDR. M. R. PIERCE

Executive Officer of Lakehurst Naval Station and Chief U. S. Naval Observer Aboard Graf Zeppelin

Written Especially for the Hearst Newspapers

(Copyright, 1928, in United States and all countries other than continental Europe, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part. Copyright, Continental Europe, by August Scherl G. M. B. H. and by Ullstein.)

Aboard Graf Zeppelin, Nov. 1—Monday afternoon weather reports gave promise of a fine crossing, but that evening a strong gale swooped down on us from Labrador without warning. For hours the Graf Zeppelin made no headway against a 70 to 80-mile wind.

The winds carried with them a dense fog and at the same time static was so heavy at Cape Race and adjoining stations that we could not communicate with them.

Suddenly the mist broke and revealed land and lights beneath us. The next thing was to find out what part of the country it was. After considerable peering through fog and occasional clearings, it was established that we were over Conception Bay.

Despite the heavy gale passengers slept peacefully. On the surface of the ocean waves were mountain high and it is safe to say that had our passengers been aboard even the largest liner, most of them would have been sick.

For satisfactory transatlantic air service over the Great Circle route it is essential that we have addiional weather information from this section of the north Atlantic, probably by the establishment of meteorologic stations in Labrador, etc. Such information would have given the Graf Zeppelin warning of the big blow of Monday night and saved much trouble.

Zepp Passengers Play Cards; Wine Served on Final Lap

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Nov 1 (AP)—The American passengers aboard the Graf Zeppelin today paid eloquent tribute to the voyage of the airship and said they would not have missed it for anything.

Hans Nolde of Reading, Pa.; Donald Casto of Columbus, O.; Paul Marko of Brooklyn and Joseph Jessel of New York said that they were so excited last night that they sat up and played cards. Champagne was served.

WOMAN BALKS AT LAWYER'S QUESTIONS IN DIVORCE

'OH, JUST A SMOKE'

DENIES KISSING

Mrs. Irene Rooney, in her divorce case in Middlesex Probate Court, objected to the cross-examination of her husband's lawyer and refused to answer his questions. She denied drinking with a Mr. Bartlett, but said she smoked a cigarette with him.

JUDGE ORDERS HER BACK ON THE STAND

Contesting a divorce petition brought by his wife, Irene Young Rooney, vivacious Newtonville brunette, on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, John F. Rooney in Middlesex Probate Court today told Judge Colin Campbell she had admitted there was "the little matter of a kiss" between her and a Mr. Bartlett, whose office adjoins her haberdashery store in the Little building.

In his direct testimony he described an all-night vigil at the Log Cabin in Sugarville, N. H., during which he saw Mr. and Mrs. Baird of Winchester, acquaintances of his wife, the petitioner and a "Mr. So-and-So" consume four rounds of drinks each. Under the severe cross-examination of Attorney Joseph P. Walsh Mrs. Rooney unsuccessfully tried to evade his questions by leaving the stand, but was ordered back by Judge Campbell.

Taking the stand to substantiate the allegations of cruel and abusive treatment, on which her divorce petition is based, Mrs. Rooney told the court she was married in Maine in September, 1923, and now owns a men's haberdashery shop.

TELLS OF HER TROUBLES

She testified their domestic trouble began in 1926 on the occasion when Rooney took his brother home to their house from a Rutland sanitarium.

"He struck me in the face," the young matron declared, "and also struck my brother when he tried to take my part."

In further testimony she enumerated other instances of beatings at his hands. Under the cross-examination of Walsh, the witness denied drinks had ever been served to her in her shop, but admitted smoking cigarettes with a business man who occupied an office adjacent to her place of business.

Q. (By Walsh). Did your husband ever call for you at your place of business? A.—Yes.

MEDFORD MAN POWER PROBER

A Medford teacher is on a committee of ten appointed today by the National Education Association to investigate the activities of the power trust in "stuffing" school textbooks with propaganda.

Stevens Kadesch, principal of Medford high school and president of the department of secondary schools of the national association, is the only Massachusetts representative on the committee. Two are women teachers.

The insidious activities of the power interests, their propaganda and publicity, were called to the attention of the nation by the Hearst newspapers.

DEDICATE NEW B. & M. STATION

The new North Station—now approaching completion—is to be dedicated and formally opened to the public of New England on the night of November 14, with exercises and a banquet in the east waiting room, it was anounced today.

The formal opening will take place just a year to a day since the first announcement of the plans of the Boston & Maine for a modern passenger station to supersede the old North Station, and auxiliary projects embracing a $10,000,000 development of the terminal area. The opening will find the station proper complete from marble-walled waiting rooms to spacious concourse—the latter now enclosed for the first time.

200 PRISONERS HELP BATTLE $15,000 FIRE

Bridgewater, Nov. 1—Two hundred prisoners at the state farm here today helped Bridgewater, Middleboro and Brockton firemen battle flames which caused $15,000 damage in the E. L. Cook brickyard and nearly reached a tank containing 20,000 gallons of oil.

The fire did reach an oil feed-pipe, which exploded, scattering blazing liquid over a fire truck.

Wesley Atkinson, local fireman, was badly burned about the hands and face when he leaped on the truck, drove it into a field and extinguished the flames with chemicals.

In spite of the efforts of firemen and prisoners, a long shed and 3,000,000 bricks were destroped. The fight lasted two hours, for after saving the oil tank and other structures the fire-fighters had to cope with a blaze in a section of woodland where the trees had caught.

The fire is believed to have started when a drying flame, passed up between the rows of bricks, ignited the roof.

The brickyard adjoins the state property and apparatus maintained by the state farm was despatched to the scene.

hTe Bridgewater department was also summoned and when the danger to the oil tank was realized, Supt. Henry J. Strann of the state institution organized the 200 inmates into a fire brigade, while Chief Waite of Bridgewater called on outside help.

COOLIDGES AT WEDDING OF PRINCESS CANTACUZENE

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Princess Ida Cantacuzene, great-granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, was married here today to John Hanbury Williams. The ceremony was attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge at St. John's Episcopal Church.

The princess is the daughter of Prince Cantacuzene, who married Miss Julia Dent Grant, daughter of Maj.-Gen. Frederick Dent Grant. The mother took refuge in America after the establishment of the Soviet government. Mr. Williams is a son of Gen. Sir John Hanbury Williams, marshal of the diplomatic corps at the Court of St. James. The couple will reside in London.

MOTT AND 'LOVE MATE' ARE WED AFTER 16 YEARS

After 16 years of defying conventions by living with the wife of another man, Maj. Jordan Lawrence Mott, 3d, traveler and author and heir to the Mott Iron Works millions, has married the woman, according to a dispatch today from San Francisco.

Mott, at the time of his "elopement" with Mrs. Frances Hewitt Borowne in 1912, was himself married to the former Carolyn W. Pitkin of South Braintree, with whom he eloped in 1901 while a student at Harvard.

Eight years ago Mrs. Browne was legally separated from her husband, Walter Browne, millionaire manufacturer of Flushing, L. I.

Not until a year ago, however, did the first Mrs. Mott consent to a divorce, leaving Mott free to marry Mrs. Browne, with whom he had lived openly in Japan and on Catalina Island, Cal.

When Mott fled with the pretty wife of his Long Island friend in 1912, his father entered into an unsuccessful pursuit around the world to tear him from the side of Mrs. Browne, a former comic opera star.

Subsequently Mott was of service to the Japanese Government and was decorated with the Order of the Rising Sun.

$25,000 PRANK FLOODS SCHOOL

Lawrence, Nov. 1—Damage conservatively estimated at $25,000 and a day's idleness for more than 1000 pupils are the results of the flooding of the first and second floors of the James D. Horne annex of the Lawrence high school by mischevious Halloween celebrators.

Late last night or early this morning, the perpetrators of the serious prank gained entrance to the institution and turned on fully two two-inch fire hose connections on the second floor corridor, inundating that and the floor below with water to a depth of three inches.

Principal Laurence K. O'Leary in estimating the approximate damage declared today his figure may be revised upward as complete inspection of the injury to the annex and its contents will not be possible until all the water has been evacuated.

Proof of the presence of Halloween "jokesters" at the school was supported by the discovery in was supported by the discovery of a human skeleton seated at a teacher's desk. It was taken from the hygiene department.

ZEPP STOWAWAY PARADED ON SHOULDERS OF CHEERING CROWD

RECEIVES OFFERS ENOUGH TO MAKE HIM A MILLIONAIRE

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 1 (INS)—"Red" Terhune, christened "Clarence" by his folks in St. Louis, the 19-year-old soldier of fortune, who stowed away on the Graf Zeppelin, saw the whole world today through a huge dollar mark. From the offers that have poured in during the past 48 hours it looks as though "Red" is going to be a millionaire or close to it before he turns his majority.

Frauleins Offer to Wed Zepp's Boy Stowaway

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 1 (INS)—"Red" Terhune, the Zeppelin stowaway, can have a bride as well as a good job. Nearly 20 German girls have written and telegraphed to Friedrichshafen offering to marry the young adventurer. "Red" showed little interest in the marriage proposals.

Countess von Brandenburg-Zeppelin, daughter of the late Count Zeppelin, offered to give Clarence a home or to care for him until his future is decided.

After he had been smuggled out of the gondola of the Zeppelin and taken into custody by the police he was quizzed at the apartment of the American Consul, John F. Koehl.

Then he was released and as he came out of the hotel cheering crowds raised him on their shoulders and paraded the streets with him.

CLAMOR TO SEE "RED."

There was general clamor here to see "Red" and get his autograph and his views on various subjects—local, domestic and international. The Americans referred to him affectionately as "Red."

It develops that "Red" has been perfecting his "gate crashing" for some time until now he stands in a class by himself, not even approached by the well known artist, "One-Eyed" Connolly.

"Why, it wasn't as hard to crash the Graf as it was to bust the gate at a Tunney fight," said "Red," with a deprecatory wave of his hand. "At that it wasn't a cinch.

ASKED FOR AUTOGRAPHS

The officers of the Graf and the Zeppelin works thought differently. They could not comprehend how the great ship, so closely guarded by a small army of watchmen and police every hour of the night and day, could be boarded by a tourist without a ticket.

The crowd clamored for a glimpse of him when he landed. There were excited shouts in German.

"Hey, Johnny, give us an eyeful," or "put your John Hancock in my little autograph book," or "how about a fat job in the movies?"

SMILES AT GREETINGS.

After his parade he was rushed back to the hangar, where the crowds recognized him, cheered him and surrounded him in a solid mass of humanity.

"Johnny, look here," was the shout from all sides.

"Red" was taken into the hangar and began passing out autographs through the window which were clutched by eager hands. Meanwhile a battery of cameras were clicking.

"The trip wasn't so bad," the youth confided to an International News Service correspondent. "They put me to work. I had to clean dishes, but what was the difference?

Asked about his immediate plans, "Red" said:

"The United States Consul will take care of me, I suppose. I guess I will be going back to America in about a week, but by boat."

Earl Carroll, the New York theatrical producer, offered $3000 to repay Terhune's passage first class back to the United States.

Many German school organizations invited the American to enter their institutions.

While "Red" did not divulge his plans immediately upon landing it is believed he will accept one of the vaudeville or film offers that were received here in a steady flood.

ZEPPELIN HOME PORT WILD IN ITS WELCOME

"Queen of the Skies" floating above in the dim light of the dawn thrilled the thousands who had congregated on the field below hours before.

When the ship first appeared, the throng broke through the police lines wildly gesticulating and shouting. After a time, the crowd became more orderly and took to singing patriotic songs played by a band on the field.

CROWD GOES WILD

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship, radioed that there was not enough light for a landing and told officials on the field he would signal when he would land.

A little earlier had come another radio. Just the terse words.

"Arrest stowaway on landing."

At 6:20 the field officials radioed: "Field clear for landing."

Then the Zeppelin slowly descended, while the din made by the cheering crowd mingled with the ringing peals of the churches of this town and the strains of "Deutschland, Deutschland Uber Alles."

Dr. Eckener was the first to descend from the ship. He was closely followed by Capt. Lehmann. Both had slept little on the trip and looked tired, but triumphant. They were warmly greeted by their wives, who carried huge bouquets of flowers.

Then the customs officials boarded the airship. Jocular remarks from the crowd entreated them not to take as long as the American officials.

Meantime the crowd was shouting for a sight of the stowaway.

"Where's Terhune?" thousands were yelling.

And when he later appeared with his passport and freedom guaranteed he was fairly mobbed.

PASSENGERS HAPPY

Theodore Matejko, the cartoonist who made the trip both ways, was the first passenger to leave the ship.

"It was an exceedingly fine trip," was his comment upon being presented with a bouquet by admiring friends. "It was much better than the one across to America."

All the passengers looked fine. None appeared to have suffered any ill-effects from their adventurous voyage.

Mrs. Clara Adams, the only woman aboard, left the ship wreathed in smiles.

"I've had a wonderful trip," she proclaimed enthusiastically. "I'll never forget it. I didn't have the slightest feeling of fear at any time even when we went through that terrible gale over the Bay of Biscay. The only part of the trip I didn't care for was the last two hours when we circled over the field.'

Clarence "Red" Terhune, the picturesque young stowaway, left the ship almost as furtively as he boarded it. None of the crowd which was eager to catch a glimpse of him saw him. Several police officials boarded the ship and marched him off, apparently under arrest.

BOY GETS PASSPORT

"Red" probably thought he was going to see what the inside of a German jail looked like. But if he did he was pleasantly surprised.

Instead he was taken before Consul Kehl, the American representative at Stuttgart, who was on the field to receive the Zeppelin's American passengers.

"Was he a good boy?" asked Kehl of one of the Graf's officers present.

"Oh, sure!" was the answer in German.

Kehl then handed the youngster an official looking document which turned out to be a properly signed and countersigned passport.

"If anyone wants to know who you are or why you're here, show him that," said Kehl.

"Thanks," answered "Red."

"Red" then joined the other passengers. He learned that his companions had taken up a collection for him. He also learned that he had become famous, that theatrical and other offers were pouring in from two continents and he was past the need of a collection.

"Well, what do you know about that," was his comment when he learned of the many offers.

John C. Ingram, the only American newspaperman aboard, was more interested in getting breakfast than telling about the trip.

"It was fine," he said, "but gee, I'm starved. Let's get some ham and eggs or whatever it is they eat for breakfast here."

Within an hour after the landing all the passengers, "Red" included, were taken to a nearby hotel and Ingram's wish was answered.

COVERS 10,000 MILES

The ship had covered more than 10,000 miles since starting from Friedrichshafen on Oct. 11 for Lakehurst. The trip home covered more than 4000 miles. The 6000 miles to America from the home port here included the long crossing to and circling about Bermuda, then the detour to Washington and New York before the landing at Lakehurst.

Actually the ship got home from Lakehurst in 68 hours and 52 minutes. She arrived over the airdrome at 4:46 a. m. (10:50 eastern standard time), but cruised about for two hours until dawn broke, the lighting facilities being inadequate for a landing in darkness.

The populace of Friedrichshafen had been aroused by salutes from cannon when the ship was announced approaching the town at 4:30. That was the signal that called the ground crew, soldiers and police to the airdrome as agreed upon when they were dispersed last evening.

When the air liner appeared over Lake Constance church bells were pealing in welcome and numerous searchlights picked up the huge silver gray hull in the skies.

"Fly in a Zepp and Have Good Time"

By WALTER P. DIETZEL

International News Correspondent

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Expressly Forbidden)

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 1—George W. Crouse, wholesale grocer of Syracuse, N. Y., who was one of the passengers brought here by the Graf Zeppelin today thinks there is only one way to have a real good time and go to Europe at the same time and that is by taking the Zeppelin route.

"I enjoyed the trip far beyond my expectations," he said when interview by International News Service. "None of the passengers was worried at any time. We only speculated upon how much we would be held up by the head winds and storms.

"I wasn't bothered in the least by the cold. Throughout the entire trip I managed to get along without either a hat or coat. Some of the other passengers felt cold, but I thought the ocean air was a wonderful bracer.

"I wish the dirigible were flying back to America tomorrow so I could go back in it. I haven't much time to spend in Europe and I'm going back to America from London on the first ship available.

TO FLY TO LONDON

"By the way, Allan Miller (one of the other Zeppelin passengers) and I are going to fly to London immediately if we can get hold of a plane.

"It seems very strange to me to be walking on European soil today when just three days ago I was pushing down the turf of the good old U. S. A.

"On the way over, I spent a lot of time walking about the Zeppelin and observing how spendidly and solidly it was built. I take my hat off to the brilliant airmanship of the German crew. I must say that the German airmen are the coolest and cleverest examples of human mechanism I have ever encountered.

"I wish I could give you the thrill, by picturing the journey, that I enjoyed in making it.

"We passengers got our biggest thrill right at the beginning of the trip when a storm hit us off Newfoundland. We were struck by a terrific wind which roared and roared but did no damage.

"At the time, we thought we were far out over the ocean and when we suddenly saw land beneath us again, we thought something had happened and that Dr. Eckener had decided to return.

IN RAIN AND FOG

"In addition to the wind it was raining heavily and the fog seemed to be thick enough to slice. But the ship behaved beautifully through it all. There was only a slight rolling now and then and if it hadn't been for the sudden sight of land we wouldn't have noticed the storm at all.

"The way the ship handled itself was remarkable. The storm was so violent that it certainly would have tossed ocean liners about but it hardly affected us. At no time on the trip was there any sense of danger or fear.

"After the storm was over we again sailed serenely over the wide expanse of ocean below. Occasionally we saw icebergs and laughingly remarked that there was one danger we avoided by taking an airship.

"We ran into other storms violent enough to have made any one on an ocean liner seasick but we hardly noticed them, the dirigible sailing smoothly and serenely through all of them.

"Then we hit some fine weather and saw a number of ships below. We played cards and chess to while the time away.

"I spent many hours on the bridge with Capt. Lehmann. He is a very efficient and practical gentleman and courteously explained to me many of the intricacies of navigation and remarked that 'future airships will be warmer, anyhow.'

WITH U. S. OFFICERS

"He smiled when I told him I wasn't cold. The three American naval officers aboard are all courteous, well-informed gentlemen and we spent many hours together.

"I had the rare privilege of having frequent talks with Dr. Ernest Branderburg, the German air minister, who was one of the passengers. He very obligingly sent a wireless to the Lufthansa Company requesting that a special plane be gotten to take Miller and myself to London.

"Over the Bay of Biscay we again hit some nasty weather. Those last hours were the most uncomfortable of the whole trip. We were greatly disappointed that we could not see the countryside over southern France and Germany because of the darkness.

"We circled over Lake Constance for a long time before reaching the air field. It was very misty early this morning with the moon just managing to peep through the clouds.

"From our cabin windows the ground crew, waving electric lights below to guide us, presented a fantastic spectacle. Altogether my first trip over the new international highway of the air was a wonderful experience.

"Now for London and home on the Aquitania Saturday."

Shortly after the interview Crouse and Miller left for Amsterdam in a special plane provided by Lufthansa at Brandenburg's request. From Amsterdam they will probably fly to London.

Crouse had no visa, but the police did not complain, merely asking him to obtain one.

Col. Miller, who is a New York and London financier, called it "a wonderful trip."

"It was the best ocean crossing I ever had," said Col. Miller. "I will do it again any time."

William Ullman arrived without a passport, but J. E. Kehl, United States consul at Stuttgart, promised to get one for him forthwith.

Ullman didn't know until 15 minutes before the takeoff at Lakehurst that he was to make the trip. He was watching preparations for the departure when he remarked he would like to make the trip and said he'd pay $4000 for the privilege. The offer was accepted and he soon found himself aboard without baggage of any kind. From Berlin, where he will get a passport, he will fly to Paris and catch a steamer for New York.

Woman Passenger Exhausted After Zepp Voyage

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Clara Adams of Tannersville, Pa., only woman aboard the Graf Zeppelin, arrived so exhausted that upon her disembarking United States Consul John F. Kehl went to her aid.

"You must have breakfast immediately or you'll faint," he insisted.

Mrs. Adams had just remarked in reference to her unique experience, "It is nothing to be proud of, for I traveled as comfortably as was to be expected. But now I'm so exhausted."

Mothers, Sweethearts, Get Free Wireless Greetings

Friedrichshafen, Ger., Nov. 1 (AP)—Mothers in Nizhni-Novgorod, sweethearts in Jerusalem, friends in Geneva, Vienna, Sofia, Riga, or Stockholm were enabled early today to hear familiar voices sending them greetings from Friedrichshafen, without paying a cent for it.

As the local broadcasting was hooked up with 34 European systems, carrying the announcer's voice into the remotest corners of the continent many of those who had gathered at the Zeppelin airdrome, profited by the lull in the proceedings, when the announcer evidently had difficulty in keeping up running comment.

They merely pushed the announcer aside, placed themselves before the microphone and broadcast in their native language such a message as this:

"Hello, mother, if you happen to be listening in at Nizhi-Novgorod, please note that your son is standing in the Friedrichshafen airdrome, and sends you affectionate greetings through the air."

The announcer good-humoredly permitted these interruptions to go on when there was nothing important to announce, and converted the microphone into a free wireless station.

right and that only a bigger power plant is needed and either more motors or swifter ones.

Transatlantic air travel, now that it has been proved mechanically possible, awaits only financing to permit it to become an everyday thing. The engineer has done his part and it is now up to the banker to furnish the money.

There was absolutely no danger of any kind on the entire return trip. We suffered no accidents and the passengers felt as safe as if they were on a big ocean liner when awake and as comfortable as in their own bedrooms when asleep.

There is one improvement which we must make immediately, however. Some kind of a heating plant must be installed aboard the Zeppelin to provide more comfort.

I am an old salt, but even I felt chilly at times.

German Press Reacts to U. S. Police Discourtesy to Zepp

Berlin Nov. 1 (INS)—Reports that passengers on the Graf Zeppelin at the end of her westbound voyage were unceremoniously handled by police and customs officials at Lakehurst, N. J., found a reaction today in the following headlines in German newspapers: "No customs chicanery at Friedrichshafen" "Quite different from Lakehurst" "German officials congratulate passengers," and "Even the police equal to the occasion."

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

Saving a la seconds

Every year several great shoe factories send us their factory damaged shoes—a famous hosiery concern ships us its entire output of seconds—several shirt houses do likewise, etc., etc.—and, for example, the first quality article that sells for $3 and $4—usually sells for $1.95 in Filene's Basement because of a slight blemish or defect.

In many cases it takes an expert to find the hurt. The damage may ruin a pair of sox the next day after you buy them in one instance—but in hundreds of cases they will give you just as good wear as the first quality sox and you save a lot of money.

If a promiscuous scratch, tiny hole, pulled thread, slight soil, misweave or some other "accident" during the process of manufacture makes no difference in the wearing quality to you—then Filene's Basement can help you discover an interesting way to save money through the many thousands of seconds sold over our bargain counters yearly.

Must you take a chance when you buy these seconds? No, indeed! First of all we buy only reliable seconds — merchandise that can be guaranteed to be dependable but for which the maker cannot get the regular market price; then we plainly mark all signs and price-tags "SECONDS" and finally every piece of merchandise is Filene warranted to give satisfaction.

Next time you walk thru take a minute to investigate that lot of shirts marked SECONDS—and you'll probably get an unexpected saving!

FINE QUALITY RADIUM and other SILKS

It takes 3 yards of silk to make a shirt and after careful shopping we find that the quality of silk in many of these shirts retails at $1.95 a yard; in other words material alone in many of these shirts would be $5.85 in first quality.

Some of these shirts are soiled, some with small oil spots or slight misweaves that will not affect the wearing and in many cases hardly noticeable. Plenty plain color shirts, neckband or collar attached, some with separate collars. You will find the new long point collars—plenty of white—sizes 13½ to 17 in lot. Friday at 9.

MOSES ATTACKS RASKOB OVER 'BIGOTRY'

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, vice-chairman of the Republican eastern advisory committee, issued a statement today in comment on a letter sent by John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, to Dr. Hubert Work, Republican national chairman, in which Raskob charged that persons associated with Dr. Work's committee were promoting attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion.

Raskob enclosed a photostatic copy of the letter purporting to be from Senator Moses to "Hon. Zeb Vance Walser, Lexington, Ky.," in which an article Raskob called viciously anti-Catholic was referred to as "red hot stuff."

CITES ST. LOUIS FIGHT

"Who is this John J. Raskob who seems to be so agitated because a Southern Democrat has written something which I thought to be 'hot stuff'?" Senator Moses asked in his statement.

"He is the chairman of the Democratic national committee whose St. Louis headquarters have been busy for weeks in flooding certain sections of the country with vicious attacks upon Mr. Hoover's religious faith. These attacks have been sent out officially under the seal of the sign-manual of Mr. Raskob's committee.

"Why is it that in these closing days of the campaign Mr. Raskob and his candidate seem to be taking the field like Mohammedans unfurling the green flag with the flying horse's tail and proclaiming a holy war?

WHO GOT LETTER?

"It is because the cause is lost upon every issue which should envelop a political campaign and because of the desperation of all drowning men that clutch at straws.

"If Mr. Raskob's ethical sense is so fine and his general sensibilities so readily aroused, it might be worth while to ask how it happens that he has my mail. Did he himself rifle the mails or did some of his Tammany stool pigeons do it for him?"

Make Hoover Life Member of Sons of Revolution

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Herbert Hoover at his personal headquarters today received a delegation from the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, who conferred upon him a life membership as a tribute to his "loyal citizenship and distinguished service to his country throughout the World War."

Replying to John L. Walker, president of the society, who welcomed him into the organization, Mr. Hoover said that "it is a genuine compliment you pay me today."

"The society of the Sons of the American Revolution, which was organized by those who originally fought for the establishment of this government, and whose members throughout 150 years of our history have with uniform devotion maintained all its high principles and noble purposes, is one with which every American may be proud to be associated," he said.

WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS IS PROMOTED BY B. & M.

Promotion of William F. Cummings of Marblehead, now engineer of maintenance of way, to be assistant chief engineer of the Boston & Maine railroad, was announced today by Chief Engineer W. J. Backes. He will be in charge of engineering design, valuation standards and real estate engineering.

The appointments of Harold F. Fifield of New Haven to succeed Mr. Cummings as engineer of maintenance of way; of Joseph A. Parant, now engineer of standards, as principal assistant engineer, and Charles J. Griffin, principal assistant engineer, as construction engineer, were announced, all appointments being effective at once.

QUAKE RECORDED AT WASHINGTON, DENVER

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—A very heavy earthquake was noted by Director Tondorf today on the Georgetown University seismographs. It occurred at 11:18 p. m., eastern standard time last night, and its center was placed at 1900 miles south of Washington.

An earthquake of the first magnitude, was reported at Denver today by Father Forestall, seismograph operator and professor at Regis College. It was of one hour and 15 minutes duration, and reached its maximum at 9:19 p. m. last night. It ended at 10:30 p. m. Father Forestall located it at a distance of 700 miles, probably in Texas or Arizona.

Goblins' Victim

SUFFERS BURNS
Lillian Mahar, 3½, Pearl st., Newton, is at the hospital being treated for burns received when a Halloween candle set fire to her costume.

BOY DEAD, GIRL BADLY BURNED ON HALLOWEEN

Halloween in Greater Boston claimed one boy's life, sent a baby girl to the hospital critically burned and caused one serious fire and scores of false alarms.

The dead boy is Robert Carey, 10, of Boylston st., Newton Highlands, who was run over by an automobile while hurrying to the store to buy a jack o' lantern.

CAUGHT FIRE

Two-year-old Lillian Mahr of Beacon st., Newton, was burned when her flimsy hobgoblin costume caught fire from a lantern. She is at Newton hospital with serious burns on her face, hands and body and she may have inhaled flames.

The charred ruins of a building on Tremont st., Melrose, give evidence of how one crowd of boys celebrated Halloween. Carrying their pranks too far they sneaked into the vacant structure at 132 Tremont st., owned by Jonathon Lewis, and, after placing oil and paper all around, set fire to oil-soaked rags.

Cambridge police still are awaiting the appearance of the owner of the huge stuffed moose which they found boys dragging through the streets with two girls astride it.

DRESSED AS GIRLS

This was one of the unusual pranks of the night. Three Lynn boys put a "fast one" over on a motorist when, dressed as girls they begged a ride. When he stopped at a store they "stole" the machine, abandoning it a few blocks away with a tag on the wheel reading: "Thanks for the buggy ride. Dan, Eddie and Frank."

Ten false alarms were rung in Lynn, which suffered most in this respect. Homes had the usual parties and the festivities at hotels and cafes in Boston exceeded anything in recent years.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR ALL SAINTS' DAY

All Saints' Day was observed with several masses in all the Greater Boston Catholic churches today. A feature of the observance was a noon mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, an innovation which was welcomed by many worshippers, as evidenced by the throng which took advantage of it.

Tomorrow is All Souls' day and, while it is not a holy day of obligation like today special masses will be held in all churches.

TWO SHOOTINGS MARK HALLOWEEN IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—Halloween observance in Chicago is neither as safe nor as sane as a Fourth of July celebration, the police announced today after checking up the damage. Two shootings, two stabbings, one of them fatal, a near-riot when the police clashed with merry makers and several hundred arrests, besides thousands of dollars worth of damage to property, all were attributed to last night's celebration.

ALBANY BOY KILLED IN HALLOWEEN PRANK

Albany, Nov. 1 (INS)—Halloween pranks left a toll today of one dead in addition to usual minor property damage. Samuel Ceverino, 12, one of a group who had just tied a string of tin cans to an auto bus, darted out into the path of another car and was killed.

Joy for the Color-Blind! Device Matches Tints

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP)—Announcement of a machine to take all the guesswork out of matching colors was made today before the convention of the optical Society of America.

By its aid the wife may cable from Paris asking her husband to match in the home town a shade of color that she describes as striking her fancy, and it can be done. Further, it can be done in less than a minute so exactly as to leave no ground for domestic argument.

The apparatus is named the "recording spectrophotometer." It was demonstrated before the convention by its inventor, Prof. Arthur C. Hardy of the department of physics of Massachusetts Institute of Technology attached to the staff of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company.

Hardy's machine is based on the simplest principles of color that every schoolboy is taught, namely that color is determined by the number and kind of light rays which a surface reflects.

In less than a minute this apparatus draws on a chart an ink line that gives the precise amount of each color of the spectrum necessary to exact reproduction of the shade under analysis.

FIGHT PLAN TO RETIRE OLDER GAME WARDENS

The alleged expressed policy of William C. Adams, director, State Division of Fisheries and Game, to retire the older game wardens in Massachusetts in favor of younger men will be discussed at a mass protest meeting tomorrow night by Middleboro sportsmen.

At the same time they will interrogate Adams, who has consented to attend, on his reported attempt to force the retirement of Nathan W. Pratt, 65, who has been warden in that district for the past 18 years.

At his office in the State House today the fisheries and game director admitted his representatives had interviewed Pratt relative to his voluntary retirement in January, but denied any application had been made by them to the state retirement board for his forcible removal.

According to Arthur L. Clark, member of the Middleboro Fish and Game Association and one of the organizers of the protest gathering, Director Adams is seeking the "premature" retirement of Pratt to save the Commonwealth the expense of paying him a full retirement annuity.

Clark further alleges Adams is judging the efficiency of wardens by the number of convictions and the consequent amount of fines collected from game law violators. "Every Massachusetts sportsman knows," Clark declares, "that some sections are entirely free of these offenses while others are notorious for their frequency." In answer to these allegations, Adams today declared it "inadvisable to make any comment in anticipation of the Middleboro meeting tomorrow night."

SALESMAN STILL HELD IN GIRLIS AUTO DEATH

Stamford, Ct., Nov. 1 (AP)—Paul Lambert, college graduate, salesman and caretaker who was taken into custody by police for questioning in connection with the death of Miss Olga Bayes, Ansonia stenographer, was still being detained today while investigators checked his movements on the night of Thursday, October 25. It was on that night that Miss Bayes was struck on the head with a rock and thrown into a creek by a man who had offertd her a ride to the railroad station. MissBayes died in Stamford Hospital.

Police say he answers the description given by Mis sBayes and spots which appeared to be blood stains were found on the door of his garage. They also say he washed his car Saturday for the first time in several months. Lambert claims an alibi.

EXERCISE AND BE GRACEFUL, SAYS EDNA

By EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

The crime against grace which is so commonly exhibited and which so often dispels the charm of a beautiful and artistic costume is awkward rising and sitting. Most people waste energy when they rise or sit down by jerking too far forward and then jerking back into a comfortable position. It is usually a case of a "double act"—the legs and arms cooperating.

One of the best ways to improve circulation is, of course, deep breathing. The following exercises also are good, and incidentally, sleeping without a pillow aids circulation.

BACKWARD KICKING EXERCISES—Stand in a natural position, with weight on one foot. Place your hands lightly on the hips, the body slightly forward from the hips, the chest very high. Kick backward and forward from the knee, with one knee, then the other, about 20 times.

ON YOUR BACK: With arms flat at the sides, raise trunk and swing legs overhead until toes touch the floor, as illustrated in pose 3.

The next exercise as illustrated in pose 1, is what I term the "lazy bicycle." On your back, bend from the hips and with legs vertical, bend them alternately as though pedaling a bicycle.

Tomorrow the "eternal flapper" gives still more profitable hints on youth and health.

BROTHERS HELD FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE TIRE

Charged with stealing an auto tire from a motorist who was making a change of tires on Cottage st., Chelsea, two East Boston brothers were arrested today and later taken to Revere to see if a victim of another robbery could identify them.

The brothers, Salvatore La Monica of Liverpool st. and John La Monica of Union pl., were charged with larceny of a tire from Harry Hall of Saugus and also with assault with a dangerous weapon on Hall.

REVERE GIRL VICTIM OF AUTO TRUCK DEAD

Seven-year-old Matilda DiStasio of Proctor ave., Revere, who was struck by an automobile truck near her home while on her way back from school yesterday, died today in Chelsea Memorial Hospital from a fractured skull.

John Anderson of Hood st., Lynn, driver of the truck, was arrested today by Revere police on a manslaughter charge.

How children's feet look in the Coward Arch Support Shoe. Note their upright position with no sign of sagging or arch weakness. High and low shoes in all leathers.

How sharp your eyes would be to detect a curvature in any other bones of your child's body—how instantly they would dilate wide with fear and determination to do something, anything to halt the dreadful process! Yet so many mothers daily look with unseeing eyes at the "turned over" ankles of their boys and girls. . . .

Safeguard the normal growth and health of your children's ankles, arches, feet, by giving them Coward Shoes always. For generations, Coward has been the recognized authority on the scientific designing and manufacture of proper shoes for the growing foot. Let your children have this protection straight through childhood and you need never worry about the future of their feet.

tape and the frantic adulation of thousands. The Democratic hosts of New York are determined to accord Smith a demonstration that will make all others seem tame.

Tomorow night at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn Governor Smith will speak on state issues. It will be his contribution to the campaign of his friend Franklin D Roosevelt, who accepted the gubernatorial nomination at Rochester last month only at Smith's insistent pleading.

Saturday night he winds up his own campaign with a speech in Madison Sq. Garden. It promises to be a celebration and speech that will be memorable.

Governor Smith remained at his hotel today, busy with his speeches and conferences with his aides. At noon he received a delegation of collegians and several racial groups.

Smith Reaffirms Stand on Immigration, Rural Schools

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Governor Smith today received two delegations at the Hotel Biltmore and to both he reaffirmed his position the questions of education and immigration.

He told a group of foreign press representatives that something he had said soon after the war had been picked up by certain persons in the presidential campaign and used against him on the theory that he favored a letting down of the immigration bars and that a whispering campaign that he opposed the public schools also was being conducted against him.

The Democratic presidential nominee said the statemetn he made during his first term as Governor that gave rise to the false charge that he favored an unlimited flow of immigrants into the United States was that:

"It did not make any difference to me whether a man or a woman could read or write, if he or she came to this country and reared up their children heer and sent them to our public schools and by their nergy they kept open the channels of trade, and they weer willing to fold the American flags around themselves and take teh oath of allegiance to the Constitution of the United States. I regard them just as good citizens of the United States as though they had come from a long and an unbroken line of New England ancestry that came over in the Mayflower."

The charge that he opposed the public schools, he said, was "so stupid, so senseless, and so out of line with the record that any intelligent person who hears it is compelled to laugh at it."

To a group known as the College League for Alfred E. Smith, the Governor said that with modern highways and transportation there was no more need for the "Little Red Schoolhouse" or the single room school, and that an improved rural educational system was needed to keep the people from moving away from the farms to the cities.

Insurgents to Hold Senate Balance, No Matter Who Wins

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Correspondent.

New Yok, Nov. 1—The next President will have to deal with an insurgent-controlled Senate and a House probably of his own political faith, it was indicated today by reports reaching headquarters of both parties.

The insurgents, with seven members of their senatorial bloc continuing in office and four more reasonably certain of re-election will be just as strong in the next Congress as in the remaining session of the 70th. Consequently, their group appears certain to dominate legislation for another two years.

To overthrow insurgent control, the Republicans would have to elect 22 "regulars" in 35 Senatorial contests. For Democrats to get a reliable majority they would have to win 24 seats.

The House situation lines up differently. An overwhelming victory either for Hoover or for Smith would carry with it a House of the same political faith.

COLE REBUKED BY EX-GOV. COX

Former Governor Channing H. Cox today rebuked Gen. Charles H. Cole, Democratic candidate for Governor, for introducing personalities into the campaign in his attacks on Frank G. Allen, Republican nominess, termed the latter's record unblemished and asked the voters to "try Mr. Allen on his 20-year public record."

Cox was one of the speakers at the daily Republican rally at the Adams House, where Asst. Postmaster-General John H. Bartlett, former Governor of New Hampshire, accused Governor Smith of misstatements in his remarks about postoffice sites.

ROBINSON SPEAKS IN INDIANA TODAY

Enroute with Senator Robinson to Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 1 (AP)—A hit and run campaign in Indiana today, in Ohio tomorrow and West Virginia Saturday and the nationwide tour of Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, will have come to its end.

As part of the home-coming rally at Little Rock, Senator Robinson will speak briefly over the radio. The nominee's last speech will be given in Clarksburg, W. Va., Saturday. He speaks in Huntington, Wabash, Logansport and Fort Wayne, Ind., today, and in Lima and Dayton, O., tomorrow. On the trip horne he will make no speeches.

"Victory; It's In the Air," Says Gov. Smith

New York, Nov. 1 (INS)—"It's in the air, Governor Smith told newspapermen today. "It's victory. It means victory. It's everywhere. You can feel it."

The Democratic candidate appeared more confident than ever.

Gov. Smith had been asked what the receptions, the throngs at the stations, the crowded lecture halls, the enthusiastic cheering meant to him.

And the governor replied, "Victory is in the air."

Coolidge Hopes Hoover "Comes Back" Safely

Washington, Nov. 1—Herbert Hoover spent a half-hour with President Coolidge today at the White House on the eve of his departure for home.

"Good-by, Mr. Hoover," the President said. "I wish you a pleasant trip to California, and a safe return.

"Good-by, Mr. President," the Republican candidate replied. "I thank you."

13 PASSENGERS JINX ON STATE HOUSE ELEVATOR

Thirteen passengers put the jinx on a State House elevator today which resulted in a tieup of the car between the first and second floors and the transfer of its occupants to one adjoining through an emergency door.

According to Supt. of Elevators William Ellison, who released the passengers, the rapid descent of the car caused the sudden application of the safety devices and rendered the elevator immovable until they were unlocked. None of those in the car was injured, although one young woman showed excitement at the quick halt in the descent.

CHARGE VOTING LIST FRAUD IN BOSTON

retary of the committee, when the checkup is complete the names of illegally registered men and women will be submitted to the Boston Election Commission for action.

However, this will constitute a somewhat useless gesture, according to officials at City Hall, inasmuch as the law provides that any complaint against registration must be made not later than 14 days prior to election day.

Although the drive against the alleged illegally registered voters is being conducted by Republicans who charge a huge Democratic fraud in an attempt to poll 20,000 shady ballots next Tuesday, there is no way of determining by the registration lists whether an illegally registered party is a Republican or a Democrat.

The Republican investigators admitted this today at the State House.

Another crew of Republican workers was busy along the same line at City Hall but no report had been made by this crew of illegally registered voters discovered.

From a responsible official, it was learned today that a hotel clerk declared by Republicans to have made affidavit citing five names of registered voters as names not registered at the hotel last April 1, had denied the affidavit today.

The same official asserted that one of the five men whose names the Republican committee furnished to newspapers, complained of the affidavit today to the district attorney and proved that he has lived at the hotel constantly over a period of years. This man holds a responsible position in a Boston store.

Wellesley Girl Is Appointed to High Position in China

Nanking, China, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of President Chiang Kai-Shek and sister of T. V. Soong, minister of finance, has been appointed a member of the committee of the legislative Yuan of the Chinese government.

Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek, who is a graduate of Wellesley, and has been an active worker in the Nationalist movement, is the first woman member of the Nanking government.

BORAH MAY BE KEPT FROM HUB BY ILLNESS

Local Republicans were alarmed today at the possibility that Senator William E. Borah may be prevented by illness from appearing at the mass meeting scheduled for the Arena tomorrow night.

Word was received here from Chicago that James W. Good, Western manager for Herbert Hoover, had been informed by Senator Borah he would be unable to address a mass meeting in that city Monday night. The senator wired from Baltimore he was suffering with an ear infection and exhausted from the rigors of the campaign he has waged over the country.

REALTY FRAUDS PROBED AFTER COURT CASE

A sweeping investigation of a number of fraudulent land deals in Boston and other cities was launched today by Inspector Frank J. Haggerty of police headquarters following the conviction of Loomis D. Griswold of larceny of $1000 from a Brookline woman.

Griswold was found guilty by Judge Devlin in municipal court of the larceny of the money from Miss Emily Smith of Fuller st., Brookline.

It was alleged that the woman purchased two lots of land at Broadway Terrace, a real estate development in Everett sponsored by Griswold, on a partial payment plan.

The case was continued for disposition on November 3 at the request of his attorney, who explained that they would secure Mrs. Smith's deed for her.

WAMBAUGH IS FOR SMITH'S 'PROMOTION'

Enthusiasm at Democratic headquarters in Young's hotel was further excited at the noon rally there today by a plea for religious tolerance voiced by Prof. Eugene Wambaugh of Harvard University.

"My vote for Alfred E. Smith," declared the speaker, "means that I, as a Protestant, rejoice that I have the opportunity to show that I am not a bigot."

Prolonged applause was halted by Prof. Wambaugh with the admission that he was "not entitled to plaudits" for his declaration.

NO RELIGIOUS LINE

"I look upon the matter of religion as a lawyer and a business man," he continued, "and it makes no difference to me whether the man making a will or signing a note is a Catholic or a Protestant and that subject should not enter politics either."

Adverting to the qualifications of Smith for the presidency, Prof. Wambaugh asserted that it was the duty of the American people to promote him in the public service.

"Promotion of men who have succeeded in private business is sound business policy," he declared, "and it is equally sound in the national business.

"From the beginnings of the United States to the present, 10 Presidents have been twice elected. Of that number four had no college education, no national education, and indeed hardly any education at all."

"HONEST, SYMPATHETIC."

"But if the country wants an executive that is honest and sympathetic with the aspirations of the common people they must turn to Albany, to Smith, who has displayed those qualities the last 25 years."

Others who addressed the rally were Congressman John D. Douglass, Samuel A. Bithoney, president Syrian Democratic club; Alfred "Al" Miller, Harvard track and gridiron star; Francis A. Campbell, superior court clerk; William C. A. Healey, Joseph J. Borgetti and John V. Mahoney.

Criminal Cases In Barnstable Court Increase 40 p. c.

Barnstable, Nov. 1 (AP)—A 40 per cent increase in criminal cases coming before the first Barnstable district court over the same period a year ago is recorded by the clerk of court.

This court covers the six Cape Cod towns of Barnstable, Bourne, Falmouth, Sandwich, Mashpee and Yarmouth.

Drunkenness cases increased nearly 50 per cent. The report notes that of 156 drunkenness defendants only four were acquitted by the lower court.

20,513 IN COURT PAST YEAR FOR BEING DRUNK

Large increases in prosecutions for drunkenness, violation of the motor vehicle laws and violations of traffic laws were reported today by the clerk of the Boston Municipal Court.

There were 20,513 prosecutions for drunkenness in the 12 months ending October 31, as compared with 18,698 in the previous year, an increase of 1815.

Prosecutions for violation of motor vehicle laws more than doubled, the figures being 1887 for 1927 and 3513 for 1928. There were 11,912 prosecutions for violation of the traffic laws, an increase of 2722.

A notable decrease was shown in arrests for being present where gaming was in progress, the comparative totals being 1287 for 1927 and 705 for 1928. An increase of only 51 was shown in arrests for violating the liquor laws, and a gain of 90 in the number of warrants issued for search for intoxicating liquor.

The statement is the annual report of Clerk Edward J. Lord, and was compiled by Harvey Hudson, first assistant.

WOMAN BALKS AT QUESTIONS IN DIVORCE

served there? A.—It may have been but not to me.

Q.—Did you ever take a drink with Mr. Bartlett? A.—No.

SMOKED A CIGARETTE

Q.—Did you ever know your husband objected to you drinking whiskey and smoking with Bartlett? A.—Well, I smoked a cigarette with him, but I never drank liquor in his office.

Walsh asked Rooney to step forward so that the witness could see his head and then asked:

Q.—Do you remember the fingernail file incident? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever drive a fingernail file into your husband's head? A.—No.

Q.—What is Bartlett's full name? A.—LeRoy B. Bartlett.

Q.—What did you call him? A.—Roy.

Q.—How long have you known him? A.—Two or three years.

Q.—Did you ever throw a poker at your husband? A.—No; but I struck him with it and as a result he knocked me unconscious.

DENIES KISSING.

Q.—Did you ever kiss Mr. Bartlett? A.—No.

Q.—Don't you recall stating once that your relations with him were confined to kissing? A.—No.

Mrs. Eleanor Baird of Winchester, testifying for Mrs. Rooney, described a dancing party at a New Hampshire summer resort at which she, her husband, Mrs. Rooney and an unidentified man were present.

By agreement of counsel, after conference with the bench, the fourth member of the party was referred to as "Mr. So-and-So."

Mrs. Baird testified that on return from the dance to the inn where they were stopping, an automobile drew up, two men stepped out and one, whom she identified as Rooney, inquired if the party knew Mrs. Rooney was a married woman.

Hesitancy of Mrs. Baird, under cross-examination by Walsh, to answer questions concerning smoking and drinking at the New Hampshire inn led Judge Campbell to remind her that those practices by present-day women were common knowledge and while he considered them of little weight in the case before him admonished the witness to answer Walsh.

SOME DRINKS SERVED.

Q.—(By Walsh) On the way to the dance with your husband, Mrs. Rooney and Mr. So-and-So, did you stop the automobile? A.—The car was stopped once to light cigarettes.

Q.—Was there some drinks served among the party? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you get the liquor? A.—My husband had a flask containing gin.

Q.—Did you dance with Mr. So-and-So? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Mrs. Rooney drink? A.—No.

NUN ON TRIAL IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Nov. 1 (INS)—The death penalty was demanded for Jose de Leon Toral, confessed assassin of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, and a 20-year prison term for Abbess Maria Concepcion Acevedo y de la Llata, mother superior of a Catholic nunnery, when they were arraigned in the district court today on the charge of causing the death of the late President-elect on July 17.

Leon Toral is accused of the actual killing. The nun is charged with "intellectual authorship," which, in the words of the prosecutor, means she incited the killing.

Juan Correa Nieto, prosecuting attorney for the federal district, accepted Catholics on the jury, despite the fact that both defendants are Catholics and religious feeling is running high throughout the Republic.

FRANKLIN M'VEAGH DECLARES FOR SMITH

Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP)—Franklin MacVeagh, Chicago capitalist and Secretary of the Treasury under President Taft, declared in a statement issued today by the Alfred E. Smith Independent League of Illinois:

"Prosperity rests on the resources of the country and enterprises and labor of the people. So far as a President can help the currents of the nation's prosperity, I would rather have the help of Governor Smith than that of any other man in our public life."

BRIDES WIN SOCIAL SPOTLIGHT FROM DEBS, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Higginson-Oakes Wedding Is Item of Importance on Calendar

ENTER THE BRIDE. RADIANTLY AND WITHOUT THE SLIGHTEST tinge of compunction she sets a November or December wedding day, infringing on the debutante's chosen field and innocently enough, but effectually, crowding that wild-eyed darling right out of her accepted place in the social sun. Miss Virginia Oakes, daughter of Mr and Mrs Francis J. Oakes of Southwood, moves into line with December's brides, and sets the day for December 8, when figuratively, at least, Emmanuel's chimes will resound in celebration of her wedding to George Higginson. At 4 in the afternoon solemn vows are given, just as dusk arrives and tapers are lighted to throw ethereal light over the churchly scene.

THE BUSY LITTLE GOD WITH his darts has decimated the Oakes family. Three daughters in quick succession were his targets. Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell was Miss Mary Francis Oakes. Mrs Sidney Jones Colford, Jr., was Miss Elizabeth Oakes, and now Miss Virginia is about to assume a distinguished Boston name. Charming girls, all three. They had lovely coming-out parties, and they traveled everywhere; and their popularity at home brought Junior League and Vincent Club membership, hall marks of social esteem as Boston imprints them. Mr. Higginson is a son of Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, and the leaves that flutter on that young man's family tree are many and important enough to compile a Social Register.

NEWLYWEDS, ALONG WITH famous playwrights, much talked about authors and artistic geniuses of several sorts have one idea in common—they migrate Chelsea-ward when seeking a home in London. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lee, Jr. (Kathleen Stoddart), have done exactly that, and for the next year or two while Mr. Lee remains abroad in the interests of his family's firm and its high finance they will live in that fascinating quarter. Chelsea is for the Whistlers, the Arlens; for the M. P.s and Ministers to His Majesty. So why not for the newlyweds? All the Lee relations who went over for the wedding (they numbered nearly 20) brought back glowing descriptions of the new Lee menage.

THE LEE RELATIVES HERE, and they are legion, do not expect the young people over for ever so long. But whenever the crossing is made Mrs. Lee, Jr., who is really Anglo-American, may have an opportunity to renew childhood friendships. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stoddart of Ewell Court in Surrey, Americans who have lived long abroad. Her papa-in-law is that eminent Bostonian so closely identified with the town's financial magnates, gentlemen who are the backbone of State st. and intimately concerned with enormous deals and vast undertakings.

SPEAKING OF NEWLYWED homes, Miss Elizabeth Van Cortlandt Lyman, when she is Mrs. Gordon Harrower (a transformation that takes place on Nov. 16 in Emmanuel's dim-lit spaces) becomes chatelaine of a Providence establishment. She and Mr. Harrower will be at home to their friends in the smartest environment of the Rhode Island metropolis, where the first families cluster on the hill and almost next door to the exclusive Hope Club. Of course, everyone of place and consequence in Boston will rustle into Emmanuel to hear the Harrower-Lyman promises given amid ecclesiastical solemnity. First families not related to the Lymans by ties of blood are connected by friendship's ties; and Miss Lyman herself is an outstanding young set figure.

TRAVEL TRAILS STRETCH alluring into Oriental ports before the eyes of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine of Arlington st. and Waltham. Japan, land of the pink-petaled cherry blossom and clicking sandals, is their objective some time in February after the hectic town round has spent itself and society is taking wing. Whether they follow the gypsy patteran "west to the sinking sun" or travel with the morning to the Far East is not a matter of great importance—one path outgoing and the other returning will be the program. The fashion edict for black exactly suits Mrs. Paine, who looks always perfection in the sombre shade—expressed in broadcloth and caracul as she shops, lunches and teas about town.

MRS. WILLIAM H. GOODWIN'S tea for Miss Diana Lee-Warner fitted with nicety into the debutante program and with the Arthur Rotch dance in the evening gave the newly out set sufficient excitement for one day. The Hotel Somerset's ballroom burst out into gay harvest colors for the dance, and the green room was gaudy and seasonal with pumpkins, glowing vegetables and fruits for the ushers' dinner. Mrs. Rotch, in black velvet, was the slender matron, quite as girlish as debutante daughters. The midnight shade fluttered about her gold slippers in the uneven hemline, and an enormous cluster of deep purple orchids poised on one shoulder.

MISS JOSEPHINE ROTCH CAME home for Miss Lydia Rotch's coming out party, and wore an effective creation of leaf brown that suggested yesterday's bustle mode and yet was absolutely of the moment from its V neck to the last fluttering flounce about its wearer's heels. The debutante, Miss Lydia, wore a frock of warm rose, sophistication allied to demureness and so quite fittingly the thing for buddingtelle. Miss Margaret Ford's net and moire was tea rose tint, fainter echo of Miss Rotch's gown and complementing it nicely when the receiving line formed—against a cedar background and flanked with blossoms of every hue—incense to the debutante shrine.

WHENCE COME THE HUNDREDS of "patronesses" whose names decorate the scores of "lists" to be encountered as this year of grace and "benefits" proceeds on its appointed way? Three subscription matinees for Talitha Cumi Home occupy attention during December and January and give willing matrons an opportunity to shine on a list apparently never ending. Some recent additions thereto are Mesdames John Lowell, Arthur W. Moore, Horace Frazer, William Ellery, Clement S. Houghton, Neal Rantoul, Arthur Perry, Jr., Alden A. Thorndike, Roland D. Stearns, George E. Cabot, Bancroft Davis and Ernest B. Dane.

Ruth B. Wellington Given Tea Today

MRS. STANWOOD GRAY WELLINGTON is at home tomorrow afternoon at the Wellington home in Chestnut Hill in honor of Miss Ruth Baker Wellington, of the debutante galaxy. The tea and dancing occasion accomplishes the formal coming-out and later there will be several jollities sans formality, when the older generations are not included in the guest list and the younger one holds full sway—at house dances, dinners and luncheons given for Miss Wellington, a probationary Junior Leaguer.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves

If you only knew—you rundown, anemic women—who are dragging yourself around on your "nerve"—what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment about going to your druggist and getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. Dora Robillard, of Bellingham, Mass., R. F. D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing in addition to the other work."

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the past 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will put them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, you get your money back on request.

Cold Wave Flees, So You May Doff the Overcoat

This is neither a threat nor a promise. Whether you shall place your overcoat aside or continue to wear it—well, you are the judge.

The weather man today promised a continued rise in temperature following the sudden bolt upward of the mercury, putting an end, at least temporarily, to the "cold wave." The skies will be cloudy, in fact, there may be some rain in them, but it will be warmer, before it gets colder. That is the forecast.

FLOATS GALORE TO JOIN G.O.P.'S BIG PARADE

With 20,000 torches alight and tons of red fire burning, the mammoth parade being arranged by the Republicans for tomorrow night will have numerous features not often seen nowadays, according to announcement today. There will be an ancient steam calliope, a more ancient one-horse chaise, two aged standard-bearers for Hoover, who carried flags two generations ago, and other features.

In the procession of 30,000 or more, there will be at least 10,000 women, it is also announced. Numerous floats will appear, two of them to be put in by the women of Winchendon. These will be the Spirit of Liberty and Uncle Sam.

Saturday edition of the Church Page in the Boston Evening American will carry the boyhood story of Boston's leading rabbi, Harry Levi, of Temple Israel.

Gloucester Republicans will be represented by a dory manned by men in oilskins and equipped with fishing nets.

Samuel J. Shaw of Brookline will appear in a one-horse "shay," which has been in his family for 150 years. In it will ride Uncle Sam and Liberty and it will be decorated with red, white and blue lights. Eight men in colonial costumes will form an escort for the vehicle.

In the auto division will be a steam calliope to bring memories of old circus parades.

There will be cranberry pickers from the Cape, and it is expected that numerous other groups will be arranged for so that the procession will be typical of various industries of the State.

The women will have three bands and a number of floats in their section.

Mrs. Francis V. Crane, marshal, and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Frank Roe Batchelder and Mrs. Francis Prescott, honorary marshals, and representatives from the various towns and cities will march at the head of the column.

Among the towns and cities to be represented are Newburyport, Hinsdale, Belmont, Winchendon, Quincy, Burlington, Weymouth, Cambridge, Springfield, Danvers, Woburn, Revere, Canton, Sharon, Braintree and Newton.

G. O. P. LEADER IN LOTTERY SCANDAL

Philadelphia, Nov. 1 (AP)—William B. Smith, Republican organization ward leader, State legislator and clerk in City Council, was charged today in a warrant for his arrest with operating a "clearing house lottery."

The warrant was issued by Judge Edwin O. Lewis on information of Dist. Atty. Monaghan, who is directing the grand jury investigation into organized lawlessness and police corruption.

Judge Lewis also ordered warrants for the arrest of a number of police on charges of extorting money from gamblers for protection.

Ten witnesses, mostly negroes, testified before Judge Lewis that the lotteries had taken in approximately $350,000 a year, of which about $115,000 was paid for police protection. One negro, Mark Johnson, former constable and former Republican division leader, now in prison on a gambling charge, said he had been a partner of Smith in the "lottery racket" from May to December. Johnson declared the lottery had been conducted from Smith's real estate office.

Police implicated include five captains, recently suspended when they were declared "unfit to hold any public office," 13 detectives, one sergeant and one patrolman.

HOOVER'S FINAL DRIVE CENTERS ON 4 STATES

respects to President Coolidge before leaving at 5 o'clock this evening for his home in Palo Alto, Cal., where he will cast his ballot November 6.

WILL CROSS 12 STATES.

En route to the Pacific coast Hoover will traverse twelve states, delivering a prepared address in St. Louis tomorrow evening and brief talks in at least three other cities—Cumberland, Md., tonight, Louisville, Ky., tomorrow, and Pueblo, Col., Saturday. Along the entire route, he will greet station crowds from the platform of his car, speaking informally wherever his hurried schedule will permit.

Maryland, Missouri, Kentucky and Colorado will be the states of principal strategic interest in the Hoover overland finish, for it is in these states that the Democratic managers have made their strongest appeals. Governor Smith has carried his colorful and high-powered campaign into each of the four commonwealths, and in each the opposition claims an advantage over the Republican nominee.

GETS CHEERFUL REPORTS.

As Hoover turned his back upon the smashing wind-up of Governor Alfred E. Smith in his native bailiwick, he carried with him reports from two of his lieutenants that New York State will be found safely in the Republican column. Theodore Roosevelt told Hoover that upstate New York will roll up "an overwhelming majority for both the Republican state and national tickets," and that the Democratic advantage in the metropolitan area would be smaller than in Smith's past gubernatorial campaigns.

The increased registration in New York city, which is more than 500,000 over the highest previous mark, Roosevelt told Hoover, presents a Republican advantage. William J. Donovan, assistant attorney general whose home city is Buffalo, challenged the claims of Democratic National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, his fellow-townsman, that Erie county would go to Smith.

FINAL APPEAL TO WOMEN.

In a final appeal to the feminine voters Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, vice-chairman of the National Committee, declared the fervor of the women Hoover workers has taken on the "aspect of a crusade" in the home stretch of the campaign. She repeated Hoover's emphatic warning against overconfidence.

Hoover's St. Louis address, which will be broadcast on a national network, is expected to offer a specific program of farm relief in more elaborate detail than any previous campaign utterance.

Coupled with his pledge last week to call an extra session of Congress immediately after March 4, if adequate agricultural relief is not enacted in the regular December short session, the St. Louis address is expected to put forward a clinching appeal to the Middle West.

IN HOOVER'S PARTY.

In the Hoover party will be the candidate's wife and son Allen; Dr. Hubert Work, Republican national chairman; George Akerson, his personal assistant; Ray Benjamin, Thomas C. Gregory and Charles Robinson, all San Francisco supporters, and George Barr Baker of New York, who has been a close adviser of the nominee on campaign strategy since the Kansas City convention. Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, national committeewoman from West Virginia, will accompany the party as far as Keyser, W. Va.

Among those who called on Hoover to present final reports or to bid him goodbye were Chief Justice William H. Taft, Ogden Mills of New York, under-secretary of the Treasury, and John Barrett of New Hampshire, former director of the Pan-American Union. Barrett expressed the opinion, based upon a survey completed since Governor Smith's Boston speech, that Massachusetts would give her 18 electoral votes to Hoover and Curtis.

Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, will carry the Republican standard into familiar territory tonight, when he speaks in Kismet Temple, Brooklyn, in behalf of the national ticket. His address will be broadcast over a 39-station hookup.

When Hoover was asked about his ideas regarding the election, next Tuesday, he replied:

"We will win the election without any question of doubt if the people who believe with us go to the polls."

He was asked how big was the "if."

"I have nothing to add," he replied.

THANKS REPORTERS

Hoover stared down at the marble floor of the press room as the newspapermen gathered about him. He began by thanking the reporters for the "extraordinary fairness" they had exhibited in covering his campaign, and at the outset of his remarks recognized the fact that his campaign has been an unusual one.

REFUTES COLE'S BEEF TRUST CHARGES

The "beef trust" charges hurled at Lieut.-Gov. Frank G. Allen, Republican nominee for Governor, by his opponent, Gen. Charles H. Cole, were today characterized by Frederic S. Snyder, former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, as a "tissue of misrepresentations."

Snyder is a member of the firm of Batchelder & Snyder, one of the largest of the independent beef dealers in Boston.

Gen. Cole, in platform utterances at Fitchburg, Gardner and Winchendon last night, declared Allen's company—Winslow Brothers & Smith, Inc.—was intimately linked with the Armour packing interests and that Allen exacted tribute from Bay State consumers.

"BEEF" COMPANY A TANNERY

"The Democratic candidate did not give the true connection of Armour & Company and Winslow Brothers & Smith," said Snyder. "The latter firm runs a tannery.

"Examination of the records of the packers and their stocks shows that at no time since the war have they been prosperous, and the future is uncertain.

"There are too many independents for the packers to have a monopoly.

"The report of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, from which Gen. Cole quoted, advocated that the packers give up retail business. The leading packers voluntarily denied themselves this business and do not and could not engage in retail business.

CHAIN STORES CONTROL PRICES

"Retail prices of meats in New England are controlled by the chain stores. Their wide distribution and great buying power have acquainted the people with prices. There is no chance to mulct the public. They have educated the people of New England regarding food prices and values.

"I have been in the meat business for 40 years, a competitor of the packer, but I cannot willingly see such false, untrue and misleading statements, in both facts and inferences, broadcast.

"Another fact which calls for correction is this. You cannot finish cattle in New England properly. The reason is we haven't got the corn here. Corn is necessary to properly finish cattle. We can produce milk, but not meat profitably."

DRY ELECTION IS PROHIBITION EDICT

Washington, Nov. 1—Next Tuesday's election will be "as dry as possible," according to an edict by prohibition G. H. Q. today.

Privately it was admitted "as dry as possible" is a degree dependent upon local sentiment chiefly, although the comparatively small Federal army of agents is making an active drive against the major sources of supply.

Orders have been issued to the prohibition administrators from Washington to take unusual precautions to prevent bootleggers and public drinking in the vicinity of voting places.

RHODE ISLAND BY 10,000, G. O. P. CLAIM

Providence, Nov. 1 (AP)—Frederick S. Peck, Republican national committeeman from Rhode Island, today sent the following telegram to Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican national committee."

"Rhode Island will elect a Republican senator by more than 10,000, and Hoover and Curtis by a slightly reduced majority."

Judge Felix Hebert of West Warwick is the G. O. P. candidate for the U. S. Senate.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON
Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FURY OF FIGHT FOR N. Y. STATE UNABATED

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Driven by considerations of the most compelling character, the battalions of Smith and Hoover are contesting hand-to-hand for the state of New York.

The official communiques of both Democrats and Republicans continue to speak of an expected victory. Both concede that the final days will see no relaxation in the fury of the combat.

The magnitude of the struggle is not gauged alone by the preponderant weight of the state's 45 electoral votes. There are added reasons why New York is receiving a disproportionate share of attention.

AIM BIG BLOW AT SMITH

One of these reasons lies in the fact New York is the home state of Gov. Smith and his followers are determined to demonstrate he can carry the state as a presidential nominee. His opponents are determined to strike a blow at his leadership by taking his own state for Hoover.

Another reason is to be found in the dominating position occupied by New York in the financial and industrial world. Gov. Smith and Chairman Raskob have given repeated assurances that business has nothing to fear from a Democratic victory. Democratic leaders feel it would be to their particular advantage to be able to say that, after a long lapse of yeras, New York again was willing to cast her vote for a Democratic nominee for president. By the same token, the Republicans are counselling business men not to trust the Democratic promises.

COMB STATE FOR VOTES

The politics now prevalent in this state is the kind that penetrates to the marrow of the bone. Whatever outward agitation there may have been is not to be compared to the work of quiet organization which has gone on ever since the national conventions, from one end of the state to the other.

This work on the side of the Democrats has centered in New York City and in the larger cities upstate.

The Republicans have organized upstate on a scale unequaled in any previous campaign. They have been specially active among the women voters. Thousands of Republican women have had a part in a house-to-house canvass designed to bring it every available vote for Hoover.

HEAVY REGISTRATION

Both parties claim an advantage under the new registration figures, which show that 2,029,514 are eligible to vote in New York City, and 1,855,762 in the remainder of the state. The increase over 1924 amounted to 529,969 in New York City and 467,753 upstate.

The Republicans say they will hold Smith's New York City majority within such limits that Hoover's margin upstate will overturn it with plenty to spare.

The Democrats predict a 600,000 plurality for Smith in the city, and declare Hoover will be far short of that many in the rest of the state.

Cleveland's Widow Is Backing Smith

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Frances Preston, widow of Grover Cleveland has entered the political lists for the first time since her first husband's death and placed her name in Governor Smith's column.

Mrs. Preston, who met Governor Smith and his wife when she dined with them and sat beside Mrs. Smith on the platform at Newark during the Governor's speech declared she had great admiration for the Democratic nominee, based on a long study of his career and a great affection for Mrs. Smith, based upon an evening spent with her.

"I think the Governor's speech was very timely from the modern woman's standpoint," she said. "I agree with him absolutely on his stand on the proposed equal rights constitutional amendment. Such an amendment would be nearly fatal for the working woman."

PROTESTANTS ISSUE POLITICAL STATEMENT

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—A protest against the "attempt to identify through the prohibition issue the interest of Protestantism with a Republican victory," was issued today by an "Independent committee of Protestants," of which the Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Swift, associate professor of applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary, New York, is chairman.

It bore the signature of 152 Protestant teachers of theology, ministers, students in theological seminaries and laymen leaders, and stated "some of us intend to vote for Governor Smith and others for Norman Thomas."

Millions of Sneezes

Washington, Nov. 1—There seem to be a lot of snuff users in the country. The production has increased in 50 years from 4,000,000 pounds to 41,000,000.

AMERICAN'S POLITICAL FORUM

Says Allen Is Star Dodger on 'Power'

By

Chas H Cole

Democratic Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts

Gen Chas H Cole

ONE thing that must be said in favor of Governor Smith in this campaign is that he has avoided no issue. He has hidden no thought in a haze of meaningless words. Every person in America knows where he stands upon every question. On water power, for example, or, if you please, the "Power Trust."

I wish I could say as much for my opponent in Massachusetts.

The Republican candidate for governor in this State has proved to be a star pupil in the school of Evasion and Silence.

I have been trying from the beginning of this campaign to get Mr. Allen to say in plain language, understandable by the humblest citizen whether he shares with the Worcester Electric Light Company and the Cambridge Electric Light Company the theory that "reproduction costs" must be the governing consideration in the regulation of rates charged by the private owners and operators of public utilities.

A ruling in this direction by the United States Supreme Court is believed by some to have practically nullified the time-honored Massachusetts system of regulation based on capital PRUDENTLY INVESTED AND ECONOMICALLY MANAGED, and to have reduced our Public Utilities Commission to "innocuous desuetude," so far as curbing the exploitation of the public by these companies is concerned.

The appeal to the federal courts of the Worcester and Cambridge companies is being encouraged by the great Power interests of the country, now actively engaged in gobbling up prosperous local companies in the hope and belief that our Massachusetts system of regulating gas and electric companies is about to be destroyed.

PUBLIC PAYS

In order to establish what Chairman Attwill of our Public Utilities Commission calls this "fanciful theory"—that rates should be based upon "reproduction costs," instead of upon the amount of capital "prudently invested"—four electric light companies involved in rate disputes in Massachusetts have expended $2,000,000 for inventories and appraisals of their properties.

Under the Massachusetts system of regulation, based as it is upon the principle of a fair return upon money ACTUALLY INVESTED, this vast expenditure was unnecessary. Where does the money come from? The companies will get it back from the monthly bills of their customers. As in the case of the propaganda with which the larger power interests have flooded the country, the public pays.

In the case of the Worcester Electric Light Company, you remember, our Public Utilities Commission ordered the rate reduced from 7 to 5 cents per kilowatt hour, a reduction that would have meant a saving to the people of Worcester of $500,000 a year.

In the course of 40 years, the stockholders of the Worcester Company had PAID IN a little more than $4,000,000. In one year—1926—the TOOK OUT, in dividends, nearly $1,200,000.

The Worcester Company set up the so-called "reproduction value" of the enterprise.

CALLED "NERVY"

The stockholders had put in $4,000,000, the Company claimed a valuation of more than four times that amount, or nearly $17,000,000. They had the nerve to claim, further, that they were entitled to a dividend of 8 per cent on this enormously inflated valuation—which would be equivalent to a dividend of 32 per cent on the capital invested.

As a matter of fact, the situation was even worse. The stockholders had taken out, in "extra" dividends, $3,000,000. Today, therefore, these stockholders have less than $1,000,000 actually invested, against this are demanding dividends on a valuation of nearly $17,000,000, and have obtained an injunction on the ground that their property is being taken from them in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States!

Some years ago, the Worcester company bought a pond, to get water for condensing purposes. The pond cost about $70,000. They now set up the claim that this pond is worth about $1,250,000, on "reproduction" valuation. As Chairman Attwill pointed out before a committee of the Legislature, it would be just as reasonable to let the Edison Illuminating Co. of Boston capitalize the Atlantic ocean, which it uses for the same purpose.

While the State is paying the cost of trying to protect its people from extortion, the Worcester company is spending enormous sums in an attempt to overthrow the Massachusetts system of regulation.

The Public Utilities Commission placed the facts before the recent Legislature and submitted a program to deal with the situation.

The seriousness of the situation was recognized by the public utilities board, by Governor Fuller, by Rep. Shattuck, chairman of the ways and means committee. All appreciated the need of taking immediate steps to protect the people.

But notwithstanding the fact that the problem has been discussed in committee hearings, on the floor of the Legislature and in the public press of Massachusetts, my Republican opponent has never yet stated HIS position. Nor, apparently, can I get him to do so.

ALLEN SILENT

Now I say that here is a situation which ought to be of interest to every citizen of Massachusetts—and your Republican candidate for Governor is mum about it. All that anyone has heard him say about it is something about "confiscation," which happens to be the pet word of the Power interests when they refer to our Massachusetts commission and Massachusetts theory of regulation. Look back at the figures in the Worcester case and see if you can find there any suggestion of "confiscation."

A cheap and abundant supply of electricity is vital not only to industries, but to the farms and homes of Massachusetts.

Electricity offers the first real opportunity in history to give the women of the household relief from the drudgery of household labor.

The electric washing machine, the electric refrigerator, the electric iron, the electric vacuum cleaner, all these labor-saving appliances should be available to the average family. What stands in the way of their general use? In some of our communities, only the high monthly bills of the companies.

On the farm [illegible] offers the husbandman the opportunity of escape from the drudgery of past eras. Yet the farmer, standing in his field, looks out upon the transmission lines which carry power down into the cities. Because of the rates that are charged, electricity is not for him. Not yet.

In his great speech at Omaha from which I have quoted in earlier articles, the leader of the Progressives, United States Senator George W. Norris, discussed Mr. Hoover in connection with the subject of the Power Trust and its methods. Senator Norris said:

"Herbert Hoover has remained silent. He has uttered no word of protest during all the time this has been going on, and during most of that time he has held a position of power and influence. Any man in such a position does not do his duty when he remains silent."

Strike out the name of Mr. Hoover, substitute the name of Frank G. Allen, and you have the truth with respect to the position of my Republican opponent.

What are the voters of Massachusetts going to do about it?

Hoover Stand on Textiles Is Praised

By

John Richardson

Hoover Pre-Convention Manager in Massachusetts

Atty. John Richardson

ONE of the cheerful notes of the campaign sounded by our Democratic brethren is that because the textile industries of Massachusetts have been going through a period of depression, workingmen in the labor centers will vote for Smith and Walsh next Tuesday.

Just why an intelligent workingman or woman should vote for the party which has been trying for years to reduce the protection which textiles enjoy, why they should support for re-election a United States Senator who boasted, in the debate over the Fordney-McCumber tariff law of 1922 that he voted against every proposed increase of duty and in favor of every decrease—why these things should [illegible] wageworkers of New [illegible] managers do not [illegible]

[illegible] Mr. Walsh added [illegible] from [illegible] two [illegible] this [illegible]

[illegible] in Massachusetts [illegible] gight [illegible]

OTHERS SUFFER

The slump in the textile industry is world-wide and has been for several years. The spinners and weavers of Lancashire have suffered equally with those of New England and, as a matter of fact, the cotton mills of the South today, although they now contain more spindles than of all New England put together are in a slump, just as are those of the North.

Not to the same extent, it is true for they do not yet make much of the fine goods which long have been the pride of the New England mills; and they are able to get along better because they pay less wages, their employes, men, women and children, work longer hours, and they are nearer the cotton fields.

The British cotton mills are suffering because of the loss of their greatest foreign markets, China, India and Japan. All three of these countries, Japan particularly, have gone into the making of cottons, with the result that British mill hands are thrown out of work, and they form many thousands of the million men and women in England who are accepting the government dole.

Recent travelers in Italy, Spain, France, Germany, Poland and other European countries confirm [illegible] commission's report of [illegible] from its depression; and they add that the markets of the United States would be flooded with foreign goods if the duties which Senator Walsh advocated in 1922 were the only protection our cotton mills have today.

GIVES FACTS

Our own depression, like [illegible] abroad, is due mainly to over-production induced by the great demand for textiles during the World War, or, more strictly speaking, to [illegible]

With these huge plants on their hands manufacturers have kept as much of their force going as they could and weekly earnings have been low.

The wicked thing about this is that these same men have been abused, as by Governor Smith, for the low weekly average when, as a matter of fact, they should be praised for trying to keep their organizations together.

But many mills have gone out of business, and now the manufacturers are not producing more than the market will absorb.

Mr. Hoover, instead of trying to win votes by taunting New England with her misfortunes, has pointed out the causes; the changes in styles, and the over-production incident to the war.

[illegible] brought about by the general condition of business in this country [illegible] the outlook in [illegible]

Manufacturers have responded to the demand for style changes and [illegible] slightly improved with prices stiffening.

NEEDS BOOSTERS

Moreover, textiles represent only 18 per cent of the factory output of New England; and again, as Mr. Hoover points out, we have here a reservoir of the most skilled labor, of the most skilled direction, and the highest intelligence in the United States."

And he adds as a clincher: "I have no despair to offer you."

This is rather a dry subject and it [illegible] discussed in [illegible] campaign [illegible] in his own job [illegible] a fair and [illegible] of the [illegible] who have use only for [illegible]

In fact, in no other part of the country does an office-seeking candidate dare "run down" the industries of his own state. Other states are boosters, not knockers, of the things within their borders.

You can't go into any southern state and tell its people that it is not the greatest and most progressive state in the Union without being run out of town by the Rotary Club or the Kiwanis.

[illegible]

MILLIONS SAVED

[illegible] own State [illegible] employed 75,000 men in his various enterprises and never had a strike.

As Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover has introduced economies in the factory methods of the United States which are saving tens of millions of dollars annually, and are helping American employers to maintain the standards of wages and living in this country.

None of the stump ballyhooings of men who never employed labor in their lives can alter this simple fact.

Governor Smith's party [illegible] a tariff [illegible] New England industries [illegible] competition with Europe.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES MANY A SLOW UP

But you can protect yourself

No man can do justice to his job—no woman can remain vivacious and happy—with constipation daily undermining health and strength. Aching heads, painful muscles, nervousness, blemished cheeks—these are just little things that constipation brings on. In the end, it causes more than forty dreadful diseases.

Begin now combating constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it. More—to prevent it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

Healthful and delicious with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Sprinkle into soups. Recipes on package. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

YALE VARSITY CRIPPLED FOR BIG GREEN

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1928

MR. BOSTON
By Jack Conway

"I'M stringing along with the cops for once in my life," said Mr. Boston laughingly as he dropped into the Sporting Department today. "I notice that the cops are for Sunday sports. And I'm right up beside them.

"A cop, like most other human beings, is anxious to avoid as much work as possible. He knows that if the Sunday sports bill is accepted the so-called bad boys will keep out in the sunshine and fresh air. They will have plenty of clean, healthy sport to occupy their time. And somehow when people are interested in sports and have an opportunity to witness them they always do the right thing.

"Sunday sports will take many a youngster out of the back rooms of beer joints and phoney clubs. They will prefer sitting in the sunshine [illegible] afternoons in some smelly dive.

[illegible] Sunday sports [illegible] Tuesday. From what I hear there is very little opposition to the [illegible].

"I [illegible] if the opponents of the bill prowled around Sunday afternoons and [illegible] out the nature of some of the places which lure our youngsters they would be out on the line shouting for the passage of the Sunday [illegible] bill."

"HOLIDAY sport crowds are always a happy lot. They get their chief kick out of athletics.

"There are thousands of workers who are only able to attend sports affair on Sundays or holidays unless they wish to lose a day's pay.

"Massachusetts is today one of the few states which does not permit Sunday sports. An aggressive minority has always been able to block Sunday sports' legislation at the State House.

"Until now the voters have never had an opportunity to express their opinions on the matter. Now that the Sunday sports bill has been put on the ballot this aggressive minority can no longer tell you what you must have. You can do your own deciding. If public opinion counts for anything, there will be a tremendous YES vote.

"Supporters of the Sunday sports bill urge all to be sure to vote on the question and assure a sane and helpful Sabbath for all."

MR. BOSTON turned his attention to the New York boxing situation.

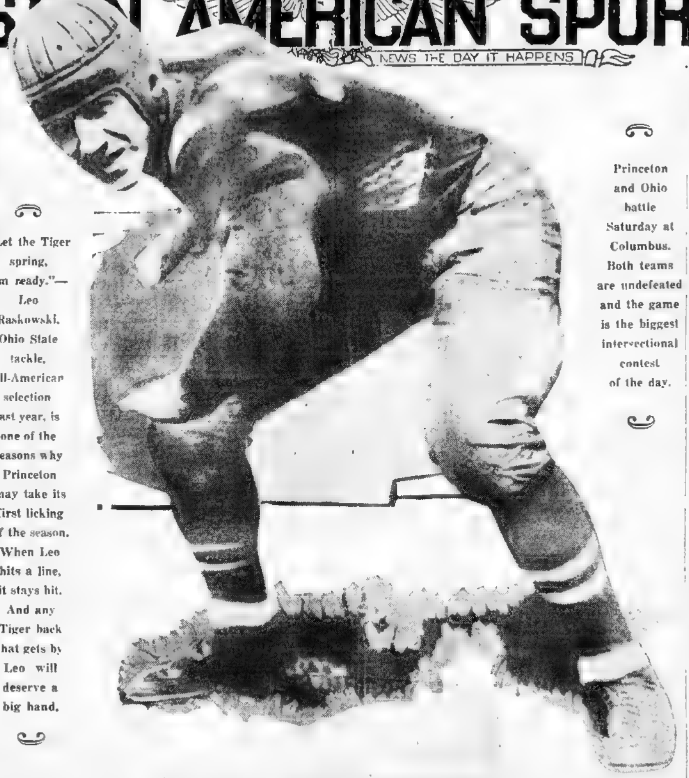
"The New York Garden reports a loss of $300,000 for the quarter ending on August 1," said the veteran. "This includes the period of the Tunney-Heeney and Mandell-McLarnin bouts.

"The fall business at the Garden has not been any too good. There have been few big houses, and it has been necessary to slash the price of ordinary shows to $5.40.

"The Garden expected to do a profitable business with Joe Dundee and Jack Thompson battling for the welterweight championship on November 16. Dundee then developed a flock of boils and this match has been set back indefinitely.

"One can realize why Rickard is so anxious that Dempsey come back. It is 100 to 1 that the Tiger will be in there next year, but it is expected he will ask $[illegible] for his services."

"FOLLOWING the financial licking he received on the Tunney-Heeney bout, Rickard declared he would never again guarantee a boxer. William Muldoon, veteran member of the New York Commission, asserted that if Tex broke his promise that he would revoke his New York boxing license. Muldoon has always believed that a boxer is not entitled to [illegible] more than he can draw at the box office.



"Let the Tiger spring, I'm ready."—Leo Raskowski, Ohio State tackle, All-American selection last year, is one of the reasons why Princeton may take its first licking of the season. When Leo hits a line, it stays hit. And any Tiger back that gets by Leo will deserve a big hand.

Princeton and Ohio battle Saturday at Columbus. Both teams are undefeated and the game is the biggest intersectional contest of the day.

GARVEY AND HOBEN ON INJURED LIST

New Haven, Nov. 1—Yale will present an eleven badly crippled, as far as first-string players are concerned, when it meets Dartmouth, Saturday.

Today it is practically certain that [illegible] from [illegible] cause of injuries [illegible] cured before the [illegible] two weeks away.

Johnny Garvey, scoring ace, [illegible] a bad shoulder and [illegible] is limping. He is a trifle [illegible].

[illegible] Norman Hall, stellar guard [illegible] recovered from a midsummer [illegible] and which was slightly aggravated by a bruise received in the Army game last Saturday. Fourthly Frank Odt, best drop kicker, is still nursing a bad shoulder, and the coaches now favor holding him from scrimmaging for another week.

NOT TO STAY LONG

Following one or two touchdowns, however, [illegible] kick for the extra point, and will leave the eleven before the next scrimmage.

The fullback Hubbard is still sheltered in case Dartmouth comes here crippled, as dispatches from Hanover indicate.

The game will be between little better than the second elevens of the [illegible].

Head Coach Stevens [illegible] a short but live scrimmage drill in which the reserves [illegible] [illegible] yesterday's practice, is taken as significant. "Jones to the rescue" is the cry on the campus.

COACH RAN ELEVEN

As head coach, Stevens ran the coaches' eleven which scrimmaged against the varsity. Jones actively coached the regulars.

A canvass of the campus revealed that there would not be a large student attendance at the Bowl for the reason that most of the undergraduates lost their money last Saturday backing the team against Harvard.

B. U. Frosh Battle for Liberty from Sophs

Class supremacy between the freshmen and sophomore classes of Boston University's College of Business Administration will be decided this afternoon at the annual field day. The new William E. Nickerson Field has been selected for this year's traditional meeting of the two classes.

The events of the day will include a football game, a tug of war, and a push ball scrimmage. Victory in any of the two events will earn freedom for the first year students from any further hazing by the sophomores.

When field day is over, a smoker will be tendered the freshmen and providing they win the day's contests, they can throw away the green ties which all first year men are forced to wear for a certain period.

PERE MARQUETTES TO PLAY ROXBURY SUNDAY

The Roxbury Town Team will be Pere Marquette's opponents next Sunday at the C. J. Lee Playground, South Boston.

Since the disbanding of the St. Alphonsus team a few years ago the Town Team has been the favorite team of the Roxbury district. The team is composed entirely of former high school and college stars, including Smith and Maloney, former High School of Commerce regulars, Haney, former St. John's Prep and Syracuse halfback; Finnegan, former Dorchester High fullback, Rosenguard, former Dorchester High and Boston University guard, and Norton, former Amherst tackle.

Two weeks ago the Town Team engaged in a hard fought game with Abington, losing out in a close game.

Kittredge, former Holy Cross star halfback, will be back in the Casey lineup after an absence of two weeks, due to an injury.

Sunday's game will start at 2:30 p. m., and the Boston Elevated, as usual, will run extra cars for the accommodation of the thousands who travel to South Boston every Sunday afternoon for the games.

STEAM ROLLERS FACE TOUGH FRIEDMAN CLAN

Providence, R. I., Nov. 1—The Steam Rollers face the severest test of the season when they stack up against Benny Friedman's Wolverines at the Providence Cycledrome, Sunday afternoon, in a battle for first place.

Detroit leads the National Professional Football League, with the Rollers but a jump behind for second place.

Valuable Race on at Pimlico Meeting

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1—With a struggle over the distance route of 1½ miles for $25,000 added, the racing interest turns to the fall meeting at Pimlico, one of the outstanding turf events of the season.

With one of the classiest fields of the season, the race looms up as a toss up, although it is expected that Sortie will go to the post the favorite with the withdrawal of Victorian and other expected starters.

Petee Wrack, owned by John R. Macomber, Boston sportsman, looms up as the most dangerous horse in the field and if it should turn muddy, this conqueror of other topnotchers may splash his way home in front.

The overnight entry list comprises 13 entrants, although it is not expected that more than ten will go to the post.

This big turf classic may be hauled down by a western threat—Lawley—which has been running well in the west and this looms up as another horse to beat.

Three Teams Tied for Bike Race Lead

Detroit, Nov. 1 (AP)—Three teams were tied for the lead, each with nine laps gained in traveling 7.8 miles, at the close of the third day's riding in the six-day international bike race at the Olympia here this morning.

The leaders were the two French teams, Cougnet-Bianconnet and Letourner-Brocardo, and 18-year-old Jimmy Walthour, American rider, and his German partner, Franz Dealberg.

CLARK SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS ENGINEERS

In a hard, fast game the Clark soccer team defeated the Massachusetts Institute of Technology 1-0 in the Engineers' last home game of the season.

The only score of the game came in the last quarter when A. Higgenbottom passed to his brother, G. Higgenbottom, who booted it in.

Gets Nicolett

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 1—S. H. Kennedy, who is gathering together a stable of horses for a winter campaign at Havana, purchased at private terms the two-year-old Nicolett.

He was the property of W. H. Whitehouse. Owner Kennedy also purchased from Helmie Neustatter, the three-year-old Sweet Way.

HOLY CROSS HAS BROWN TILT SATURDAY

Worcester, Nov. 1—Holy Cross football squad is being put through a tough series of workouts this week in an effort to whip the team into shape for one of its major games with Brown at Providence Saturday.

The squad goes on a two-a-day training program today and tomorrow, with scrimmage barred, lest injuries might further cripple the team.

James Farrell, sophomore center, who started last week's game against Marquette, most likely will get the same assignment against Brown, as the injured left knee of Capt. Dick Phelan is not responding to treatment as rapidly as expected.

Phelan has a specially-built brace to protect the injured member, but it still is very stiff and he bends it with difficulty.

O'Donnell worked long with his new backfield combination, giving his whole attention to the timing of plays.

The work of Finn, Shannahan, Dowling and Clancey will be watched closely as, on paper, they look like the best working backfield combination the Crusaders have put out this year.

There is plenty of threat, Shannahan, Dowling and Clancey being able to carry, throw and kick.

286 YALE MEN OUT FOR CREWS

New Haven, [illegible] (AP)—[illegible] crew which was nosed out by California in the finals of the [illegible] Olympic trials, is getting an early start on its drive for 1929 national honors.

There are 286 men, including several stars of the 1928 eights, out for fall practice. This is the largest number in the history of the sport and exceeds last year's turnout by more than 60.

Fall activities will continue through the first of November and will conclude with the annual November regatta scheduled this year for the week preceding the Yale-Princeton game, November 17. Fifteen or 20 class and club crews will participate in the meet.

The crew candidates are working now in various groups, some at the Derby and some in the New Haven harbor. Besides the varsity candidates, who are drilling under Ed Leader, head coach, the freshman heavies, ten class crews and the 150-pounders are all active under assistant coaches.

New B. C. Offense to Stay Under Cover

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Football fans who go to Fenway Park next Saturday to see Boston College and Manhattan open hostilities my or may not be treated to a real football game.

"It all depends on you, Manhattan," is the [illegible] put it. If Manhattan is good and can force B. C. to any extent that new McKenney offense, a mixture of running plays and baffling forwards, will be [illegible] from obscurity.

But if Boston College finds itself getting along handily the fans will see nothing but continual line smashing and the best football that the second and third B. C. elevens can exhibit.

For Fenway will be loaded down with spies from the Bronx on Saturday afternoon. Cav and his cohorts will be trying to get everything they can on the B. C. squad. And McKenney [illegible] West on the field with orders to keep his stuff under a cloak of mystery.

Still the Eagles won't hide all their football from the keen eyes of the visiting scouts if it should mean the loss of a game. If Manhattan shows any signs of upsetting the dopester, Boston College will put everything they have into turning the scales in the right direction.

SCOUT PRAISES MANHATTAN.

Coach Bill Kelliher, who scouted the Manhattan team last Saturday came back with the news that Boston College was in for a testing. But from what we can gather here and there and also from the record of the Manhattan outfit this fall the Eagles [illegible].

Manhattan [illegible] for a minor [illegible] team. [illegible] [illegible] Van Dreelly [illegible] ball carrier.

The Boston College second team, if it [illegible] to send the invaders back to the Big City with a thorough drubbing.

Zeus Wilczewski, Boston College's big guard, is still trying to hot-towel his right knee back into shape but it [illegible] as Zeus would like. He probably won't play Saturday even if the injured member does come through. McKenney won't take a chance with a cripple like Zeus who will prove a big boon to B. C.'s chances with Fordham.

BATTLE FOR BERTH

There's a minor warfare on at the Heights for the hole left by the departure of Wilczewski. John Kilroy, Bud Gorman, Al Morelli and even Jack Young, a tackle, are all in the running to start in Zeus' position.

John Kilroy is leading the field right now. Kewpie is setting the pace mainly through experience.

Close on his heels is Richard Gorman of Charlestown. Gorman is a big, quiet boy, but a whale of a guard. He captained the B. C. frosh team and also had a lot to do with the unblemished record of the B. C. frosh team a year ago.

Al Morelli could probably step into the guard job ahead of both Kilroy and Gorman but he is being held in the background to be rushed in when Plausse, who will probably start in McGlirk's place, weakens or one of the guards needs assistance.

Morelli is one of those boys who could play anywhere and love it. He has a great nose for a loose ball and is fast enough to be at end.

SUNDAY SPORTS SUPPORTERS CONFIDENT

The sport lovers of the State are confident of the success of the Sunday Sports bill which will appear on the ballot on Nov. 6 for popular approval.

Joining the large body of public spirited men and influential organizations [illegible] professional Sunday sports between the hours of [illegible] and 6 p. m. [illegible] the Worcester Post [illegible] of the American Legion.

[illegible] Allen Wade, commander of the [illegible], declares [illegible] meeting of Worcester Post [illegible] expressed [illegible] the Sunday Sports bill and [illegible] their support [illegible].

The Legion, however, [illegible] as a body [illegible] as a group [illegible] individual American citizens [illegible] welfare of the majority at heart [illegible] the Legion does not act [illegible] matters as an organization, the post approved the Sunday Sports [illegible].

If thirty per cent of the total number of voters vote Yes on this referendum, professional Sunday sports will become legal in Massachusetts.

CRIPPLES ARE BACK AT BROWN

Providence, R. I., Nov. 1—A [illegible] game with Tufts last Saturday and a schedule that calls for meetings with Holy Cross and Dartmouth on successive week-ends, have put a [illegible] of seriousness into the Brown varsity work, and this week promises to be one of the most thorough in the preparation of this season's drills.

The return of a flock of cripples promises to put Coach McLaughry in [illegible] barring unforeseen mishaps this week the best eleven men will take the field against the Crusaders Saturday.

W. Lincoln Fogarty, star back of the organization and rated one of the greatest passers that Brown has ever had, returned to the team yesterday, and today Harry Cornsweet, [illegible] and Jake Chrust all returned ready for major assignments.

Fogarty was injured in the Yale game and was held out of all the work last week, but today indicated that he [illegible] able to assume the burden [illegible] passing and running. Harry Cornsweet, former [illegible] [illegible] bring the line up to its full strength for the [illegible] the Purple forwards.

[illegible] the services of Fogarty [illegible] Tufts the Bruins found [illegible].

Once [illegible] the two-team [illegible] and [illegible] failed to show [illegible] necessary [illegible] against the Tufts team. It is possible that McLaughry will make the substitution of individuals as replacements become necessary, and that Holy Cross will be called to meet the best eleven men on the squad.

Confronted with the task of meeting Dartmouth at Hanover on the Saturday following the Holy Cross game, McLaughry will be required to use his men sparingly and the drills during the next three days will be light so far as contact work goes. Scrimmage today was the only vigorous session that was planned for the Holy Cross preparation, and tomorrow and Friday will find the men going through drills in individual assignments.

According to the word of the scouts, Holy Cross boasts a passer in Ryan that may even surpass Fogarty.

Harvard Seconds in Defensive Drill

Those torrid defensive sessions, which preceded the Army and Dartmouth games, will make their appearance again this afternoon at the Harvard football camp in Allston when Coach Horween sends his second team up against a list of Lehigh plays.

For [illegible] drills of the past two weeks, this session today is bound to be [illegible], to say the least.

[illegible] figures is enough for a game which Harvard is expected to win hands down.

In the Friday session the Crimson will be drilled on its offense with the Harvard Team B again receiving most of the attention of the numerous [illegible].

Harvard's varsity, [illegible] through injuries, is a lesser [illegible] this Lehigh drive and is [illegible] going through [illegible] days. The hard work will start next Monday and will last for two weeks.

LEHIGH PLAYS ARE GOOD

Harvard expects little trouble from [illegible] Tate, a Boston Latin school grad, has many plays but to date has not found the players to execute [illegible]. The stars of Bethlehem are a passing team and hope to score on a pass against a team [illegible] in aerial defense.

Coach Horween [illegible] Harvard [illegible] second team.

Now Horween [illegible] from [illegible] practically decided on which [illegible] Putnam calling signals to a carrying trio of Tommy Gilligan, Sam Batchelder and Art Huguley. Batchelder, a freshman star a year ago, will do the kicking for this eleven.

It is in the line that Horween finds himself in a quandary as to his starting players. Right now it appears that Dick O'Connell and Sam Burns will start at the ends of the flank; Ken Robinson and Tom Alcock will be at tackle, Jack Parkinson and Joe Cunningham at guard with Henry Buster Gildea at center.

ENDS HAVE EXPERIENCE

At end Sam Burns and Dick O'Connell are two juniors playing their second year of football. Burns is an old Cambridge Latin boy who is the best kicker on the Harvard squad, but who has been hampered by a lame shoulder all season.

O'Connell has been called the best [illegible] at Harvard. Nevertheless he is on the second team. He is a track man, captaining his freshman track team. He can do the century in [illegible] seconds and came to Harvard from Exeter with a great reputation.

Tom Alcock and Ken Robinson at [illegible] Robinson [illegible] husky individual.

Jack Parkinson at guard started the Yale game a year ago. With the work of Bill Tiesnor this fall, [illegible] his post beside the Harvard center. He is a senior and a boxer of [illegible] a Milton Academy boy, who came to Harvard as a halfback but who this year [illegible] guard.

[illegible] the varsity [illegible] however, an injury [illegible] and gave [illegible].

SECOND BACKS KNOWN

[illegible] Putnam [illegible] two years [illegible] last year [illegible] signal callers [illegible] a week ago [illegible] came from [illegible] and grabbed off [illegible].

[illegible] played on the [illegible] team last year and was touted as one of the best backs ever to don a Harvard football suit. He has been hindered by injuries all season and the Lehigh game will be his first real bid for a varsity post.

Art Huguley, a Milton Academy [illegible] Batchelder and Putnam, played fullback on the undefeated freshman team a year ago. With Wally Harper on the sidelines against Dartmouth, Huguley was called upon to fill in at fullback. He gave a creditable account of himself and will be heard from from now on.

Tommy Gilligan finds himself this Saturday in the position for which he has been striving all season. He dislikes the signal caller's post and is as happy as a lark at halfback. He was great in the Springfield and North Carolina games and is expected to get started against Lehigh this Saturday.

B. C.-Fordham Ducats Selling Very Fast

Tickets for the Boston College-Fordham game on Armistice Day are fast diminishing according to reports from the Athletic Association at Boston College.

B. C., however, received a setback when it was decided that the department stores and other big shops in Boston would remain open on November 12.

The biggest gathering in Boston College football history [illegible] most certain if the day was declared a legal holiday by the Boston Chamber of Commerce. STOPPED WITH A CRASH WHEN INTERFERENCE FAILED

WHY PLAYS GO WRONG —Boston Evening American Staff Photo

Photo shows why play failed to gain ground in Brighton-Trade game. Featherstone, Brighton fullback, started on an off-tackle smash, but was tackled by McArdle, Trade fullback, when Shamshig failed to take McArdle out of the play. Shamshig, Brighton guard, had swung out of his position and joined the interference. Buckley and Doyle of Brighton took out Cheney, Trade right half, and Kline, Trade pilot, respectively.

Many 'Comers' in Young Golfers

By JOHNNY FARRELL

RECENTLY I told you of the amazement of Eustace Storey, the rosy-cheeked Englishman, over the wholesale production of amateur golf prodigies in America.

Storey's amazement was hardly any greater than mine during the exhibition trip Gene Sarazen and I took through the sticks. If the amateur ranks are filled with budding stars so too are the professional fields.

Tigers vs. Ohio in Big East-West Battle

By DAMON RUNYON

THE chuckball—I mean football—attention of the east turns this week to Columbus, Ohio, which is west, if you live on our side of the Hudson river, but which is very much east if you are a resident of Pueblo, Colorado.

For east is east and west is west, according to the direction from which you are glaring.

In any event, the lads from Princeton, or Old Nassau, are going out to Columbus to play the boys of Ohio State about four periods of chuck—football.

A squadron of some of the expertest of the Eastern experts will follow the Princetonians to Columbus. The game is most important to the experts because it will give them the opportunity of once again clasping hands with Mr. Hugh Fullerton, the famous sports writer, who is now an inmate of Columbus.

It is the popular theory hereabouts that Mr. Fullerton moved to Columbus for no other reason than [illegible] at this particular time. Mr. Fullerton is a Princetonian by [illegible] to speak. His son attended Princeton. During that period Mr. Fullerton lived in the town of Princeton. Thus Mr. Fullerton may be said to be thoroughly inoculated with the Princeton virus.

I DOUBT the truth of the rumor that Mr. Fullerton took up his residence in Columbus to spy upon the football system at Ohio State for Princeton.

To begin with, Mr. Fullerton isn't that kind of a sardine, and in the second place Princeton wouldn't know what to do about the Ohio State system even if it knew all about it.

For so far Princeton's football team hasn't displayed to any amazing extent those qualities which make for a good, old fashioned snake dance by the Hon. Large Will Edwards, the demon snake dancer of Old Nassau.

It has won its games, or at least it hasn't lost 'em, but not in a manner or by scores that would inspire Mr. Large Will Edwards' prehensile limbs to serpentine gyrations. It takes quite some impressive football playing to make Mr. Large Will Edwards get hot, as we say.

It wouldn't be a terrible surprise or shock to the effete East if Ohio State walloped Princeton. And it wouldn't prove anything at the moment except that Mr. Bill Roper's lads aren't quite up to the Roperian standard this season.

WHILE returning from the Cagling at New Haven Saturday I became involved in conversation with a gentleman of Yale and from this gentleman's remarks I gleaned the information that the old-time idea of football games and results still prevails at Yale, to-wit:

That no game really means anything to Yale except the Princeton game and the Harvard game. Princeton and Harvard remain Yale's real rivals. Yale plays the Army and gets well Cagled, but what of it? Princeton and Harvard lie ahead. What about them? That's the real football problem at Yale as the gentleman of Yale expressed it.

I presume Princeton feels the same way about Yale, which is now Princeton's only real rival since Princeton fell out of Harvard's social register. Princeton plays other games, and wins or loses, as the case may be, but the satisfaction is in beating Yale.

HARVARD has two traditional rivals in Dartmouth and Yale. Harvard never seemed to regard Princeton as a real traditional rival. It played Princeton, to be sure, but somehow the lads up at Cambridge didn't view the result of the Princeton-Harvard game as seriously as they did the result of a Harvard-Yale pastime.

I recall one year the picturesque and lamented Tom Shevlin came out of Minneapolis in a year of Yale disaster to see if he could do anything toward whipping the Yale team into playing form. It was before the Princeton and Harvard games, and someone asked Shevlin what he thought about Yale's chances.

"Well, we've got some good material, and we may be able to get it shaped up enough to win," replied Shevlin.

"But Princeton's got a fairly strong team," the interviewer suggested.

"Princeton?" said Shevlin, disdainfully. "Princeton? I'm not thinking about Princeton. I'm thinking about Harvard."

OF late years I thought Yale seemed to be drifting away from the old fixed idea of pointing mainly for Harvard and Princeton. I thought it found equal satisfaction winning from other colleges, and equal depression in losing.

But evidently not. The Eagles are out-fliers. Yale would like to beat them of course, just as John J. McGraw loves to have his Giants beat those outfits he plays on his way north from a training [illegible]. Yet it isn't tremendously important. It is merely by way of upholding big league prestige.

And I presume that the Yale attitude is as it should be. The traditional rivals are the boys to load up for, if only for the preservation of tradition.

I AM inclined to think that Yale will beat both Princeton and Harvard this year. The latter has a good, stout team, as it demonstrated in beating Dartmouth. It will be better when it gets to the Yale game. A Harvard team is always better when it gets to the Yale game. That's part of the tradition.

But Yale will also be better.

Gene Sarazen and Zbysko In Court

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, golfer, and Wladek Zbyszko, wrestler were in traffic court today.

Sarazen, arrested Monday for driving without a license, exhibited his license to the judge and was released. Zbyszko pleaded guilty of violating a parking rule and received a suspended sentence.

ONLY TWO STARTERS IN JOCKEY CLUB CUP RACE

Newmarket, Eng., Nov. 1 (AP)—Reid Walker's Invershin won the Jockey Club cup over the 2¼-mile course today by six lengths from the only other starter, Lord Glanely's Appledore.

Invershin was favorite at 1 to 5, while Appledore started at 5 to 1. The winner is a six-year-old by Invincible-Ajantia.

The race is the last big feature of the season at turf headquarters. The racing scene now shifts to Liverpool, Derby and then Manchester, where the curtain is rung down on the flat racing season and the steeplechase horses come into their own.

ARMY WILL USE ALL VARSITY PLAYERS

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 1—As Army plans to use all the varsity players against the Navy on Saturday, Coach Biff Jones had them at work in an offensive drill of lengthy duration.

Messinger and Carl Mark were [illegible] Sprague and [illegible] tackles, Hammack and [illegible] guards [illegible] Navy [illegible] Murrell [illegible].

In the brief scrimmage which followed a kicking drill Jones called for fast work and [illegible] stationary [illegible] line and in tackling.

Murrell was the [illegible] back who [illegible] against stubborn [illegible].

However, [illegible] plays, with several backs doing the tossing and [illegible] Murrell went over three times for touchdowns.

This Is What May Come Another Way

Paris, Nov. 1 (AP)—Paris overwhelmed Berlin, 41 to 0, in a rugby match today in Colombes Olympic Stadium, which was ankle deep in mud from a torrential rain. The Germans were heavier and more powerful but were outclassed in speed and technique. Twenty thousand persons witnessed the game, which was hard fought despite the one-sided score and was cleanly played.

Before a crowd of 10,000 at the Buffalo Velodrome London defeated Paris, 2 to 1, in an association football match.

Columbia Stages Fast Scrimmage

New York, Nov. 1—The final scrimmage before the Cornell game was held by the Columbia eleven at Baker Field and Coach Charley Crowley's team defeated the freshmen, two touchdowns to one.

It was one of the best workouts of the year and Crowley was well pleased with the playing of his men.

MELLO PICKS TOLAND'S AS HIS CAMP

Refusing the advice of his friends to [illegible] his training camp at [illegible], N. Y. to do his training for his [illegible] conflict to [illegible] champion [illegible] of New England, Al Mello, Lowell boxer, probably the greatest Portuguese ring star ever developed in this country, has decided to do all his work for his battle with George "Wop" Manolian of Dorchester at Jim Toland's Gym, where his local friends can watch his daily development.

The [illegible] one of the outstanding [illegible] in this city for [illegible] will be decided at [illegible] next Wednesday night under the auspices of the Argonne A. A. and it will be the last show to be conducted by that organization as Promoter Eddie Mack will immediately take over the duties of matchmaker at the new Boston [illegible] Garden.

[illegible] to entreaties of his friends to train away [illegible] Toland's [illegible] and with [illegible] sparring partners to work out with daily, it was finally decided by the fighter and Bobby Goldman, his manager, to make their headquarters in this city in order to eliminate tiresome train rides.

Mello is training as never before. For this bout with Manolian will either result in the Lowell boxer remaining in the chase for the middleweight crown or it will mean that he will be entirely eliminated from consideration.

Mello in the past has stepped [illegible] the ring in some [illegible] of engagements, but even his fights with Ace Hudkins sink into insignificance in comparison with this approaching contest. There is nothing which arouses the interest of boxing followers as a match between bitter local rivals and not often in fistic history in Boston have there been two men so eager to grasp the same title.

With Manolian continuing his work at Wamesit, Promoter Eddie Mack is now working on the best preliminary card of the year.

MUST FOOL WILDCAT DEFENSE

Jumbos, With Varsity in Tough Shape, Will Not Try Many Line Plunges Saturday

A light scrimmage is slated for today at Tufts Oval, where the Jumbos are preparing to meet the University of New Hampshire Wildcats. The coaches must test the execution of certain of the new plays against the junior varsity and see how the New Hampshire plays go against the first stringers.

The men who [illegible] ceived in the Brown game will not get into this part of the session.

The last workout provided one of the real surprises of the season when Coach Sampson sent Gene Tobey, the lightweight center, to an end berth on team B and had Wilson take his place at the snapperback position.

NEEDS GOOD SUB

This move [illegible] wishes to have a good sub [illegible] to take the place of Godfrey, who will probably be unable to play more than half of the game.

The session was devoted to the working out in dummy scrimmage of the plays that will be tried to-morrow afternoon. Freddy Kennedy threw most of the passes instead of Husky [illegible], who has been the Tufts expert in this department all season.

Appiani and Ingalls, substitute backs, looked good on the receiving end of the tosses.

Although [illegible] and Luckaes, the two first string tackles, are able to [illegible] they will take no part in any of the hard workouts this week because the Brown game left them in tough condition.

The latter, however, was able to get off some fine placement kicks in the course of the session and Tufts' worries in this line seem to be over.

TO STICK TO AERIALS

Tufts indicated today that they would depend on their aerial attack to batter down the Wildcat defense that has only been penetrated for two touchdowns in the five games that the New Hampshire team has played this year. The Jumbos' passing game was one of the features of their game against the Bruins and should bring in the victory Saturday.

The line is getting hard workouts this week in order that replacement material may be available and in the best possible condition. Littleton and Storey, two sophomores, appear to be the best of the tackle material and will see service against the Wildcats as will Gibbons at guard.

The work of Godfrey at end gives promise of equaling that of Harry Arlanson, whose place he is taking, if his ankle that received a bad twist in the Brown game does not give way on him. His work down the field under punts is particularly impressive, even the Fish finds it hard to get away from him when running them back.

RECORD ENTRY FOR DIAMOND TOURNEY

Entries for the "diamond tournament" of St. Joseph's T. A. S. are pouring in to William H. Cuddy, director of the event, and the West End tournament will in all probability be the biggest of the year. It is to be held in Commercial Hall, Bowdoin sq., on Saturday night.

Diamond rings and diamond pins are to be given the winners and runners up in each of the seven classes, and the novelty is attracting all the leading amateurs in this part of New England.

Bouts are to be held in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 pounds and heavyweight divisions, and they will be open to all comers. Entries may be forwarded to William H. Cuddy, No. 323 Washington st., room 315.

B. U. MUST HAVE REGULARS TO DEFEAT 'Y'

A capacity crowd is expected to witness the Boston University-Springfield game at Weston Saturday. This will be the last opportunity to see B. U. in action on its home field prior to the closing game of the season with Norwich two weeks hence, as B. U. journeys to Worcester to play Holy Cross next week.

A big crowd of Springfield followers will attend the game and the entire east stand will be reserved for them.

The game itself is a toss up, although B. U. might rate as a slight favorite, taking the comparative scores of the two teams into consideration. The New Hampshire team gives a good idea of the strength of these rivals meeting Saturday. B. U. and New Hampshire played a scoreless tie and Springfield bowed to the Wildcats 13 to 6.

B. U. NEEDS REGULARS

If the Terriers are able to start all their regulars they are confident of losing the gymnasts into [illegible] but a poor physical condition of several first string players leaves B. U. [illegible] off [illegible].

The faulty defense against passes was [illegible] Ed Robinson have devoted much time this week to [illegible] weakness and B. U. should not be caught [illegible] resorts to an aerial attack.

The varsity will have its last scrimmage of the week this afternoon when it lines up against the scrubs. This will be the second scrimmage of the week as the same teams went through a previous lengthy drill.

The varsity will take the ball most of the time today in order to smooth up the attack for tomorrow. With the exception of the defense for passes B. U. does not need to worry about keeping the other team in check and can afford to devote all their time to develop the offense.

REGULARS ON SIDELINES

None of the regulars on the injured squad including Capt. Dorfman, Buckwalter, Bass, Barrett, Perkins or Helstein were allowed to take part in yesterday's scrimmage.

As a result, all of the substitutes were given [illegible] to show their wares. Sidenky [illegible] did very well in the second team back field and completed three forward passes for lengthy gains. Ralph Marston directed the first team and turned in several long runs around the ends.

After another day's rest Capt. Dorfman will be in good enough shape to take his place in the line up Saturday. Dorfman's absence from the game would leave the team in bad shape because in addition to missing their able leader the Terriers would be forced to use McCarthy, third string center in the snapper back position.

Joe Barrett, substitute center for two years, only just returned to practice after a three weeks' lay-off. Bennett suffered a ruptured blood vessel in his leg three weeks ago and it will be another week before he can get into a game.

Golf Club Styles in Frequent Change

By BOBBY JONES

National Amateur Champion

FADS come and go in golf very much as styles in women's clothes, and sometimes with just as little reason. Especially has this been true in the design of wood clubs, various and widely different types having enjoyed their day of popularity and passed on.

Years ago the popular wood models were very small, with an amazingly limited hitting area. Some of them appeared to be little larger than the ball, and it must have been disheartening to the player to contemplate the chances of a miss with such a tiny implement.

The clubs when I first saw were of this type, although I do not remember taking particular note at the time of their peanut-like appearance. I suppose they were too big for me to handle anyway.

From that time until a few years ago the heads of wood clubs have been continually increasing in size. The so-called "dreadnaught" of [illegible] years ago was [illegible] the [illegible] attention among golfers [illegible] models.

Almost every driver used at [illegible] was as [illegible] dimensions as [illegible] and most of them were [illegible] the vertical dimension of the face.

PREFERENCE for a deep face is [illegible]

[illegible]

But the [illegible] played [illegible] has become [illegible] driver and [illegible] at all [illegible] or with [illegible] considerable force.

I suppose a deeper face naturally suggests a head larger in all other respects. That may have had something to do with the general design of present day wood clubs. But there is something else about a large head which is hard to describe or account for.

A well-hit shot [illegible] has a more satisfying feel off the [illegible] than off the [illegible]

THE bulged or convex face is another feature of wood clubs which has now become universally popular.

The purpose supposed to be served by the curve is the correction of small inaccuracies in hitting, the angle of the face at the toe and heel being designed to counteract the hook or slice which would normally result from hitting the ball at those points.

It is difficult to see that the bulge accomplishes that purpose, but I believe that it serves another almost equally useful. I have always had a feeling that I could drive farther using a driver with a bulged face.

Driving into Chicago after the Walker Cup matches at Wheaton, Francis Ouimet, Gene Homans, Maurice McCarthy and I discussed this very point. We all confessed to the same feeling, although not too anxious to express an opinion for which we could give no reason.

The only explanation I could think plausible, and it is purely speculative, is that the point of the bulge presents a smaller area of contact with the ball than would a plane face and the force of the blow be [illegible] concentrated [illegible] a wood pene[illegible] beneath the cover and [illegible] into the resilient center of [illegible].

The difference, if there is any, is of no [illegible] small [illegible] if I were the [illegible] person who had [illegible] I should [illegible] in [illegible]

Amateur Hockey Gets New Impetus in Hub

[illegible] hockey has a [illegible] its former prestige [illegible] prime mover in the reorganization of the B. A. A. [illegible] team, and others are interested in the formation of a league to include Springfield and Providence.

The University Club is expected to have a strong team as Ted Learned, who will be the director, will have George Owen and other former Harvard stars. The two Boston clubs and the teams in Springfield and Providence would give a four-club organization.

Hitchinson hopes to have a strong team wear the Unicorn. He hopes to induce Ed Mullowney, former Boston College star, to join the B. A. A. [illegible] figures on Dick [illegible] former Yale star.

[illegible] managers of amateur and semi-professional teams will meet tomorrow evening at 7:45 in room 323, Copley Plaza Hotel, under the direction of Joe O'Gorman, president of the Eastern Postoffice Base ball League.

BRUINS STRONG IN N. L. RACE THIS YEAR

Boston Bruins, a squad of 15 players, got down to hard ice work at Providence today, with a two-[illegible] Manager Art Ross scheduled [illegible] early [illegible] for Providence [illegible] the squad was in high spirits [illegible] getting [illegible].

Manager Ross will be [illegible] Gorman of Ottawa is the only present National League manager that has been coaching National League hockey in the same city and with the same club longer than Ross.

The squad Ross took to Providence today was far different from his first squad five years ago. Potentially at least, it is the greatest club ever gathered in Boston.

EIGHT VETERANS

With a nucleus of eight veterans from the team which won the Prince of Wales Cup and the American championship a year ago, [illegible] to loose [illegible] in its fight to enter the Stanley Cup play [illegible] the squad [illegible] start [illegible] team.

[illegible]

NOT HIGH SCORERS

With Dit Clapper, a [illegible] veteran, a lad who can play forward or defense and with a fine prospect in Lloyd Klein, the Bruins are set for defense players. The problem is to develop a scoring forward line.

The Bruins got by a year ago with a minimum of scoring. They were not the great scoring team it had played so brilliantly the year before. They were [illegible] in many ways [illegible] great [illegible]

Young Shifts Backs for Chicago Battle

Philadelphia, Nov. 1—On the eve of the departure of the Penn [illegible] for Chicago, where it will [illegible] with the Maroons [illegible] Young shifted his entire backfield.

This change was made hard on the heels of the shakeup which sent Joe Schaaf and Sidney Gervin to the end positions in place of John Ball and Joe Olexy.

When the varsity lined up against the scrubs for the first scrimmage since last Wednesday, Mort Wilner was at quarterback for Johnny Shober, Dick Gentle and Walter Masters were in the halfbacks posts for Capt. Paul S[illegible] and Paul Murphy and Walter O[illegible] was at fullback for Carroll Rosenbloom.

In addition to these changes John Smith, Penn's star tackle, will be given next Saturday off and Gene Kuen will fill that post, Granville Carrel will be at center.

Pineapple Cake—One cup fat, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, ⅓ cup syrup drained from pineapple, 2 cups cake flour, ¼ tsp salt, 4 tsp [illegible] powder, 2 egg whites.

[illegible] 2 tsp baking powder, [illegible] 2 eggs [illegible] 1 tsp cinnamon, [illegible] 1 cup chopped seedless raisins.

Cream together the butter and lard [illegible] sugar and cream [illegible]. Beat the eggs and add [illegible] milk and rolled oats, and combine the mixtures. Sift together the flour, salt, soda, cinnamon and baking powder and add to the first combination. Beat in the vanilla, and raisins. Drop by tablespoons on a buttered baking sheet and in a moderate oven bake 15 minutes.

Here's a recipe that must be served very often in New England [illegible] 3 egg whites, 3 tbsp baking powder.

Sponge Cake—Two whole eggs, 1 [illegible] sugar [illegible] grated rind of ½ lemon, 1 tsp lemon juice.

Beat yolks until thick, add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add flavoring. And fold in whites alternately with yolk of egg. Do not stir—beat and fold. Bake about 25 minutes.

The next time rain keeps you in do take the opportunity to make [illegible] mouth watering [illegible]

Nut [illegible]—One cup brown sugar, [illegible] white sugar [illegible] 2 eggs [illegible] 2 tsps soda, 1 tsp [illegible] shortening and sugar [illegible] add the eggs, mixing [illegible] thoroughly. Add the nuts and then the dry ingredients sifted together twice. Shape into a roll about 2½ or 3 inches in diameter. Put in [illegible] pan in ice box overnight. When ready to bake slice and bake in hot oven. Makes about [illegible] cookies.

Do let me know what you'd like me to write about for you. Of course if I don't hear from you I'll just think you think the column is perfect. I'm really just fishing for an excuse to get you to write to me. Yes, I know I'm the greediest woman for letters this side of the Equator!

MARTHA LEE

Correct Manners

By MRS CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

What do you mean by a "Mr. and Mrs. card"? You sometimes [illegible] in your column. I am a [illegible] and am interested in this kind of card. BRIDE.

A "Mr and Mrs card" is a very convenient kind of card for a husband and wife to have especially if they do many social things. It is a joint card of a married couple reading:

Mr and Mrs John Henry Grange

The address may be engraved in the lower right corner, if one wishes, and it is most convenient to have [illegible] in letters of the same type as those used in the name, but, of course, [illegible] than in the ordinary visiting card.

It has many uses for formal affairs [illegible] for weddings and for the sending of bon voyage flowers or fruits, when sending flowers or messages to an invalid, when sending flowers or messages of condolence, and so forth.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

2 When [illegible] a crowded street car with a friend and [illegible] can not get seats together, is it proper for a girl to get up and sit with her friend when the person who has been sitting there leaves the car?

3 Will you please suggest some articles that would be appropriate for a wedding present.

D. W. M.

NOT unless there is a special invitation enclosed for this.

2. Yes, if she wishes. And then the boy stands while she is changing her seat, and waits until she is seated before he takes his seat.

3 Anything for the home is appropriate—something in silver, glass, china, leather, some piece or pieces of linen, something for the table being especially appropriate.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Several weeks ago I met two ladies at a dinner. I invited them to call on me. Two weeks later they called and I wasn't home so they left a note with their names on it stating they had called. It is too late to write? Is it proper to call on them? M. F.

YES it is proper for you now to return the call, and pay your respects by leaving cards for them. No, it is not too late—people aren't so peculiar about this kind of thing as they used to be. But make this call as soon as you can conveniently.

In a few hours it's ready to serve . . . tempting and colorful . . . smooth and delicious. A dessert that husbands like and all finicky children thrive on.

"Men folks certainly do like this Fruit Flavored Gelatin"

Remember doctors recommend gelatin because it's so rich in protein . . . the energy-giving, muscle-building nourishment needed in daily diet.

Here is nourishment in a form that is easy to digest. Nourishment that actually aids in the digestion of other foods.

Be generous with gelatin. Let your children have all they want. Serve it frequently . . . at least once a week.

You can place the utmost confidence in Royal. As you know, it's made by the same people who make Royal Baking Powder . . . a pure, cream of tartar product that's been on your shelf for years.

Royal Fruit Flavored Gelatin comes in five delicious flavors.

TIGER LOVE by EUSTACE HALE BALL

Story of a Dancer of the Night and Her Love

CHAPTER 21

CONVIVIAL Sergt. MacPherson and [illegible] O'Shaughnessy were [illegible] down in [illegible] for the saving of [illegible] [illegible] they lay down in his [illegible] on the [illegible]

The [illegible] of the proprietor mingled with [illegible] and the [illegible] the other two men to their feet.

"You [illegible] be [illegible]

He [illegible] from the [illegible] [illegible] "[illegible] don't [illegible]

[illegible] As he did so [illegible] living [illegible] his [illegible]

[illegible] he growled [illegible] him [illegible] love a native dancer. And now he tries to kill me for my pains." He had [illegible] his [illegible] from [illegible] holster, and the [illegible] of his many drinks and [illegible] through his eyes.

"He's all right," began Terence [illegible]

[illegible] a bottle crashed over the [illegible] of the other [illegible] against the wall [illegible] its contents scattering upon him. [illegible] instant [illegible] its bounds.

"If [illegible] fight [illegible] join either side now," and he mopped his face, brushing particles of broken glass off his shoulder and hair. "But it isn't in the chief to do this!"

A sharp screech cut the air. The native proprietor was apparently receiving rough treatment. The sergeant, representing law and order, [illegible] unsteadily on his [illegible] after the [illegible] over [illegible] and [illegible], suddenly [illegible] his revolver [illegible] room with in the room and an- [illegible]

"We're having a new war," grunted MacPherson. "I'm ready for it."

"Don't shoot to kill man," cried Terence [illegible] sudden fear for the American engineer. "He must be in trouble. He doesn't even know we are out here."

The Sergeant, Sheltered by The Door, Stuck Forth His Arm

The sergeant, sheltered now behind the heavy jamb of the door, stuck forth his arm with the revolver protruding to push the [illegible] in the door.

"Come out of there in the King's name [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] The other staggered and stepped back unsteadily toward an overturned table.

"Oh, so it's you, Sergeant MacPherson," came his thick answer. "[illegible] why [illegible] I brought a little yellow faced Hindu out here in the Major's car with some [illegible] message for [illegible] for that [illegible]

[illegible] himself for an [illegible] he snapped up a bottle [illegible] and [illegible] gazed greedily.

MacPherson lowered his weapon and stepped forward sternly.

"Where is Mr. Meredith?" he demanded. "What was the message? Where's the Hindu?"

"It's [illegible] Punjabi, I guess," [illegible] Terence O'Shaughnessy, with [illegible] uneasiness. "There must be something wrong. I told the chief it was a bad time for this wild trip."

The chauffeur sank into a chair. The proprietor arose, his hands clawing at his outraged throat and [illegible]

"I didn't know message. Sealed letter from district officer. Of all [illegible] Don't know where the Yankee is [illegible] I'll shoot him for stealing my car."

His head bobbed unsteadily and his eyes were heavy. He tried to glare [illegible] at the sergeant. But the stupor of the liquor was upon him.

[illegible] "You're not [illegible]" gasped the sergeant [illegible] doing here, man? What's this row?"

'He Stole Your Car?' Exclaimed The Sergeant to Chauffeur

"He stole your car?" exclaimed the sergeant. "What did he do with it? Where did he go?"

"Through [illegible] like wild man. I don't know nothing else."

And the chauffeur [illegible] his head upon the [illegible] awkwardly into [illegible] and went to sleep. [illegible] and the [illegible] rouse him.

And now the native proprietor found voice [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] upon him [illegible] it. Shut up [illegible] natives. First it's a yellow girl and now a yellow man that causes all [illegible] Shut up yourself or I'll do it for you."

He turned to the sergeant. Both men had sobered up with remarkable speed. They stared at each other [illegible] for an instant.

[illegible] said the sergeant [illegible] to go back [illegible] town [illegible] today after I [illegible] my column [illegible] the law [illegible]

"We've been bothering and bothering like a couple of old grannies at Donnybrook Fair," he answered. "And something big—something [illegible] happening under our very noses! You don't suppose that he [illegible] that he hunted up that girl [illegible] off with her?"

The idea had already come to the sergeant and their eyes met in mutual acquiescence. The officer called to the proprietor of the tavern.

"Here, help us carry this man to one of your cots. He'll sleep this off in an hour or so. I'll be back [illegible] his gun with me [illegible]

[illegible]

He was speeding along now with the [illegible] corpulent sergeant MacPherson lumbering along behind. The tableau which greeted him as he forced his way through the chattering Hindu was a strange one.

The two British soldiers stood on either side of a [illegible] girl [illegible] Her great brown eyes [illegible] turned toward the white man in civilian clothes.

"[illegible]" demanded Terence [illegible] garb [illegible] fingers in [illegible] girl from the [illegible] soldiers.

"This old [illegible] to give [illegible] one of them [illegible] she's too good [illegible] stick for [illegible]

His [illegible] face [illegible] ering [illegible] that [illegible] where he had seen it before.

"Isn't that the young woman who was dancing last night when the shooting began?" he suddenly demanded.

"[illegible] "I can [illegible] speak the [illegible] questions [illegible] half a dozen times [illegible] here."

"Sahib! Sahib!" [illegible] the girl [illegible] to the tall white man [illegible] his eyes and [illegible] days she knew [illegible]

Terence [illegible] take [illegible] trembling, slender fingers.

She stared at him in bewilderment, only half understanding his words. Mere [illegible] meeting earlier in the morning had [illegible] in her [illegible] her memory of [illegible] fade away entirely under this [illegible]

"[illegible] Meredith" was all she [illegible]

The sergeant [illegible] arrived on the scene [illegible] frown [illegible] and [illegible] back before the [illegible] And at the same instant [illegible] Terence [illegible] and sank to [illegible] the native throng [illegible] with sudden respect for the [illegible]

"[illegible]" grunted MacPherson [illegible] What's [illegible]

"I don't know," Terence grinned. "But I hope the whole town joins in. I'm just in the spirit for a general, friendly nonpartisan scuffle, free entries for everybody." He had tossed off his coat and was rolling [illegible] sleeves back from [illegible]

[illegible] O'Sh[illegible] some kind of an explanation [illegible]

[illegible]

As the girl became silent MacPherson caught the superintendent's arm and drew him aside for a [illegible] alone.

"Queer [illegible] queer, my friend," began the sergeant. "The girl is the [illegible] who seems to have set your [illegible] mad. And yet he has not [illegible] Instead he [illegible] the town with [illegible] to meet him [illegible] the tavern as he had told her to come [illegible] And the queerest thing [illegible]

His eyes [illegible] suddenly, and he [illegible]

"What's [illegible]" demanded Terence. "[illegible] the one who wanted him [illegible] than [illegible] sport [illegible] we've [illegible]

[illegible] asked her to marry [illegible] she was going into [illegible] tell him she wouldn't [illegible] it would ruin him [illegible] native girls would have the [illegible]

It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those ugly blackheads. Get a little Calonite powder from any drug store [illegible] [illegible] blackhead will be dissolved away entirely.

Instant Skin Beauty
WASH AWAY COMPLEXION FAULTS!
Lightens the Skin · Reduces Enlarged Pores · Banishes Blackheads · Eruptions

The newest discovery in beauty [illegible] cream of magnesia [illegible] better for the complexion than any soap or cold cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. It reduces enlarged pores to the finest smoothest texture, almost as if by magic. Being astringent it drives away [illegible] lines of age, you will marvel at the effect of your first facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so wonderfully that any woman over twenty-five at once looks at least five years younger. It's marvelous how easily magnesia [illegible] blackheads, corrects oily skin and clears the face of pimples.

And because it is so mild [illegible] it certainly is a blessing to fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and wrinkles. Not being a cold cream it cannot grow hair on the face.

It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. Just test it on those [illegible] at once and [illegible] better than a bushel of lemons.

Until now cream of magnesia has been used only by New York doctors' wives and nurses. So only the large drug stores like Liggett's have it in stock. The dollar bottle holds three fifty cent bottles. To get genuine cream of magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia.

ANNOUNCING A NEW SPECIAL SERVICE

THIS department is constantly being urged to expand. Beginning with a modest matrimonial bureau, we were soon forced to maintain an interior decorating staff, a rent-a-motorcycle-you-s t e e r service and an employment agency for the idle rich. And now, by popular demand, we announce the affiliation of Mr. Mortimer Mincemeat with our organization. He will answer calls, day or night, to explain football to the wives of busy business men. For a small fee Mr. Mincemeat will accompany your wife or mother-in-law to a football game, sit on the opposite side of the stadium from you and entertain her with polite but firm explanations. You need have no fear that Mr. Mincemeat will strike the women-folk. He wears specially constructed handcuffs.

THE WORLD NEEDS DOERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHAT this world needs is more doers and less talkers.

The man we feel most grateful toward and regard most kindly is the one who does us a generous act and never says anything about it. We find it out by accident and our hearts warm to him.

The man who is always saying, I am going to do this and that for you but does not do it, is a flunky. He wants the praise for generosity, but does not deliver the goods.

So, the man who most truly reforms is the man who quits doing wrong, not the man who makes great promises. Most drunkards and most leaders of disorderly lives elsewise are great promisers. They will tell you, while in their cups, that they are never going to drink another drop.

But the kind of reform today that we believe in is that of the man who quits doing wrong and makes no boast about it except to show his regret.

It is human to err and to make mistakes. But when we have done so the most righteous thing we can do is to quit, not to pray and not to promise nor to resolve.

The first thing needed in a wrong-doer is to quit his wrong-doing.

We are not to turn for help to a higher power until we have ceased our wrong-doing. The Bible says this of the first thing necessary: "Let the evil man forget his ways and the unrighteous man his thoughts."

The Master said that that man builds his house upon a rock—that is, he established his character most firmly—who hears his great teacher's words and does them. It is the doing of them that is the rock of our reformation.

I remember once meeting a man who had been a steady drinker for years but who had reformed. I asked him how he came to do it and what changed him. He said it was very simple. He said that the best way to quit anything was to quit.

A woman once came to a preacher and related her distress at being muddled in her religious views. After hearing her tale of woe the pastor simply asked her, "What are you doing that is wrong?" He knew that almost all our difficulties in religion are caused by our difficulties in conduct. The right kind of belief grows only out of the right kind of life.

You cannot believe the truth and live a lie.

TROUBLED WITH PIMPLES A YEAR

Affected Chest, Neck, Shoulders, Back. Cuticura Healed.

"The pimples I had were hard, red and large. They affected my chest, neck, around my shoulders and back. They itched, causing me to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions. The trouble lasted about one year.

"I used two or three other remedies without any benefit. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It afforded relief so I purchased more, and in about six weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Jos. Montecalvo, 1211 Chalkstone Ave., Providence, R.I., Jan. 17, 1928.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health, often when all else fails.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. S, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE bigger the man, the more there is of him for some little half-portion woman to "baby" or to bully.

* * *

Golf is "the tie that binds" many an average couple together, by separating them on Sundays, Saturdays and other fighting holidays.

* * *

No man is actually old as long as he is so fired with the football fever that he can sit on a backless bench in a cold drizzle, for a whole afternoon, without worrying about his rheumatism.

* * *

Every normal man wants a good wife, a good home—and a good excuse for getting away from them, occasionally.

Companionate marriage is an (imaginary) institution, in which there are no "lifers"—just a five-year sentence with commutation for good behavior.

Prosperity, these days, consists in possessing a mortgaged car, a house full of instalment furniture and a closet full of "charged" clothes.

The deity that rules the world, today, is the great god, Selfishness! Parents are too selfish to bother with the problems of their children; children stand by and mercilessly watch father's nose being worn off on the grindstone, in order to keep the car running; and the great question in love, marriage, business and politics is "What's in it for ME?"

You can tell the truth to all men some of the time; but never tell the truth to ONE man all of the time—unless you wish to bore him to death!

* * *

The attitude of a man toward a girl has changed from a plea to a dare—from, "Let me kiss you!" to "MAKE me kiss you—if you can!"

* * *

The only time when a derby hat looks well, is when it's hanging on the hall rack.

* * *

One reason why the modern man so often makes a failure of marriage is because he listens too closely to the sex-ophone song of the Lorelei Lees, and chooses a wife with his imagination instead of with his judgment.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

YOU don't have to give a woman enough rope. The average girl has a line of her own.

Take It Or Leave It

A pessimist is a man who says that when Gabriel blows his horn he'll probably be off key.

Financial Note

If at first you don't succeed, you can always go into bankruptcy.

The Good Old Daze

Don't worry if your son gets zero in his studies. That's nothing.

Null and Void

The tramp who stopped sleeping in the park because the city didn't forward his mail.

The Unfair Sex

A woman spends half her life making a man wonder, and the other half keeping him guessing.

Social Errors

It's too bad that Mr. Wrigley doesn't have an etiquette school where he could teach the flappers to chew gum like a lady.

Ace of Cads

The employer who wouldn't let his stenographer cry during office hours, because she was getting the typewriter all rusty.

Pitiful Cases

A wideawake man with sleeping sickness.

Our Own Vaudeville

Porter: Can I carry your baggage, sir?

Traveler: No, thanks, I'll drink it myself.

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. The genuine Bayer Aspirin has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

UTILITIES AND MINES N. Y. CURB FEATURES

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—Special developments carried a number of issues briskly forward on the curb market today, although trading was restricted and the general tone remained heavy.

Utilities were a strong feature. United Gas Improvement shot ahead 6 points on announcement of electrification of a large part of the Pennsylvania railroad. St. Regis Paper made a further gain of 13 points. Mohawk and Hudson Power stepped up 3 points. Oils rallied somewhat. Illinois Pipe Line shot up 18 points on announcement of increasing the annual dividend rate from $12 to $20. International Petroleum jumped 2 points to a new top and Prairie Pipe Line regained 2 points. Mines and chain stores forged ahead. Newmont climbed more than 5 points, and Lake Superior gained 3 points.

QUINCY MARKET COLD STORAGE EARNINGS UP

Quincy Market Cold Storage & Wharehouse Co. reports for six months to Sept. 30, 1928 net earnings after all charges including depreciation and federal taxes, of $94,128, equal after preferred dividends to $1.44 per share on 35,000 shares of common outstanding. In the same period in 1927 the company earned $47,469, equal after preferred dividends to 11 cents per share of common, and in the 1926 period there was a deficit of $3593.

CHARLES HAYDEN TELLS ABOUT NICKEL COMPANY

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—As a step in reorganization of International Nickel Company of New Jersey, incident to acquisition of control by Canadian interests, International Nickel Company of Delaware was chartered at Dover today. Charles Hayden (Boston banker), chairman of the New Jersey Company, said the Delaware Company had been organized as a subsidiary to hold certain properties in this country.

NEW FOX STAR HEADS CAST IN 'THE VALIANT'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1—Permit me to present Paul Muni, new Fox star. Perhaps you have heard of him as Muni Weisenfreund, famous Hebraic actor. That name was okay on the stage but the exhibitors all over the country have sent in frantic appeals to Winfield Sheehan to save their electric light bills by substituting a shorter moniker for the movies. I am glad, too, because I can never spell Weisenfreund.

Muni, now on the Fox lot, is having his first talkie and incidentally his first movie, prepared for him. "The Valiant," by Holsworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, the story of a condemned man about to be electrocuted and his 24 hours in prison, has been chosen. Eugene Walters, well known playwright, will write the dialogue and Marcel Silver will direct.

Silver first attracted the attention of Sheehan when he directed a Chic Sales movietone based on the vaudeville sketch, "He Knew Lincoln." There is pathos and a certain artistic treatment that shows promise. And Winnie never lets any director escape who in any way can be a credit to the Fox organization.

WE have so many famous playwrights coming to Hollywood these days to write dialogue it is nothing unusual to see a group gathered at the Montmartre cafe equal to any gathering ever assembled in the famous Algonquin restaurant. Sidney Howard, author of "They Knew What They Wanted" and "The Silver Cord" and twice winner of the Pulitzer prize, is due to reach here to write the dialogue for Ronald Colman's next picture, "Condemned to Devil's Island."

This is said to be the real story of Dreyfuss, the French martyr whose tragic story, some 20 or more years ago, stirred the world. Howard scorned the movies until the talkies gave him a chance to do some real writing. What with all these folk coming West I shouldn't be surprised to hear that George Bernard Shaw was traveling to Hollywood one of these days.

THE return of Edwin Carewe to Hollywood without his star, Dolores Del Rio, is the subject of much speculation. Have the director and his protege had a battle? Those who saw them depart for foreign shores in a blaze of glory are sure that a disagreement and nothing else is the cause of Carewe's arrival sans Dolores and her mama.

However, when the director reaches here from San Francisco, perhaps he can answer the question of his troubles with Dolores better than anyone. She is due to start "Evangeline" and is under contract to him; so, no matter how their romance fares, it's pretty certain she will continue to play in his pictures. Miss Del Rio has always been steadfast in her denial that she had any intention of marrying her director. His denials have never been so vehement nor so positive.

THERE are so many slips 'twixt cup and lip that Delfa Natvia may never be signed by Winfield Sheehan. She is the Mexican beauty who danced her way into the heart of Mexico City at the Maganus Theater.

Manuel Reachi, former Mexican consul and erstwhile husband of Agnes Ayres, has Senorita Natvia under contract. He is willing to sell her contract to the Fox Co. provided the right arrangements are made. Sheehan meanwhile, who is adamant in his refusal to talk will only say that no contract has yet been signed.

IT'S not every P. A. who can drop the pastepot and shears and pick up a megaphone Sam Jacobson is not only trying to do this, but he is supervising Dicken's "Christmas Carol" as well, for Universal. Tom Terris is playing Scrooge and, of course, since he is himself a director, he will probably co-star in the megaphone handling. "The Christmas Carol," planned for the Yuletide season, will be in two reels and a talkie.

TEXAS GUINAN'S outburst against Hollywood has aroused considerable amusement here. Texas knows her publicity, and what better way is there than to lambast Hollywood. The film people, instead of being upset, were very much amused.

"It's true," said one of the well known players. "we have no night life here, because we have to be at the studio at eight o'clock in the morning when we are working. It is also true that Hollywood entertains so many famous persons that we do not have time to give each individual attention. I don't think anyone can accuse Hollywood of being inhospitable, even though New York's idea of fame and Hollywood's may not always agree.

THE busiest actor in Hollywood these days is none other than Jean Hersholt, who can play a German, a Dane, a Frenchman or a Jew with equal facility. Most of his emoting is done at Universal City, but in between times he may be located at other studios. His next is "The Climax," adapted from the well-known play by Universal and, of course, a Universal fillum.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood, collected at random: Lina Basquette coming up for air after weeping all day in an emotional scene. Jean Hersholt playing her father, also in a lachrymose state. Marceline Day and Alice Day departing for Arrowhead Springs. Esther Ralston in a costume of our mothers' day attracting favorable comment on the Paramount lot.

Gertrude Olmstead dancing with her husband, Robert Leonard, at the plantation. Pauline Starke also choosing her husband, Jack White for her partner. John Davidson sporting a new yellow car on the boulevard. May Sunday weeping copiously at a movie. Mrs. Jack Warner and Mrs. Darryl Zanuck entertaining a Mexican official at luncheon at the Montmartre. Michael Curtis lunching with Bess Meredyth at the same place. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Sunday Baseball?

Yes!

On the ballot next Tuesday you will find a question about Sunday baseball.

The question is whether you are willing to grant to the different communities in the State the right to say whether it shall be lawful to take part in or witness these contests between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m.

If you believe the people of Massachusetts should have the right to such healthful recreation on Sunday afternoons as is enjoyed by the people of many other States—and which interferes in NO way with religious observances—you will vote "Yes."

If, on the other hand, your idea of How to Behave on the Lord's Day calls for silence, drawn curtains and no smiles, no laughter, you will vote "No."

A great deal of silly talk has been made about "commercializing" the Day, by which the opponents of Sunday baseball mean that a few men MAY make money from the games.

What of it? Of what importance the few, and their possible profit, compared with the thousands upon thousands who may fill the parks and enjoy good, clean sport in the open air?

Ladies who own tea rooms make money on Sunday, concessionaries at the beaches expect a profit, more "gas" is sold at the filling stations than on any other day of the week, the free list is suspended by every theater, and nothing is actually given away at the golf courses.

What the opponents of Sunday baseball want to do is COMPEL people to observe the Lord's Day in accordance with THEIR wishes.

They see—mistakenly—an effort behind this measure to introduce here the "Continental" Sabbath, whatever that may be.

If they will talk with men and women who attended the Kansas City or Houston conventions they will learn that Sunday baseball flourishes and has long flourished in sections of the United States which boast of their freedom from "immigration."

The mayors of Toledo, Minneapolis, Wichita, Omaha, Butte, Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., among others, testify that Sunday baseball is an "established institution" in those cities, that its record has been "clean, wholesome and unobjectionable," and that an attempt to discontinue the games would bring "strenuous objection" from the great majority of the citizens.

In Massachusetts, the proposal has the backing of men like General Cole, the Democratic candidate for Governor; former Congressmen Samuel E. Winslow and Henry L. Bowles, former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, Mayor Ashley of New Bedford, United States Senator Gillett, District Attorney William J. Foley, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor Bauer of Lynn, Mayor Corbett of Lowell, Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, President Alexander Abrahams of the Boston Central Labor Union and General Edward L. Logan.

Would men like these be banded together in a movement having for its purpose the breaking down of respect for the Lord's Day?

To ask the question is to answer it.

Some of the good men and good women on the other side appear to have been stirred by the paid employes of organized groups. They do not comprehend the numbers of those who WANT Sunday ball. They have been told NOTHING about the decorum of the crowds which enjoy the national game on Sunday in other parts of the country.

Give us one season of Sunday baseball and those who are at all liberal or broad-minded among its opponents will ask no greater favor than that their present opposition may be forgotten.

Vote "Yes" on Sunday baseball and provide harmless recreation for the thousands who have no other day of rest.

Value in Power

Machinery Makes American Labor Actually Cheapest in the World

Sometimes we hear coolie labor spoken of as cheap labor. A coolie works ten or twelve hours a day. If he works hard. and stops for one meal, a bowl of rice, he can move one ton one mile in one day.

For that work he gets 20 cents. And it is called "cheap labor."

It isn't cheap labor at all. The really cheap labor is here in America. We move a ton of coal a mile for less than one cent; so we learn from the official railroad statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is, American labor is twenty times as cheap as coolie labor.

This is true, not only in transportation, but in every branch of manufacturing. The chief reason why our labor produces so much is that it is generously supplied with power —power working with labor through the medium of machinery.

Last session of Congress considered Secretary of Interior Work's plan to protect Imperial Valley from flood by a great dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado River, incidentally creating 600,000-horsepower of electrical energy. Southern California is so hungry for this power that it is willing to contract for it at a rate to make the whole project self-supporting.

The House passed the Boulder Dam bill. The Senate by a filibuster was prevented from voting on it. If it should pass the Senate this session it will make the whole country richer by the value of the power added to the workers of the Pacific Southwest.

Big Mouthful—Financially

The Kaiser's son-in-law, the Duke of Brunswick, wants to sell his art collection, including pieces brought from the Holy Land by Henry the Lion in 1173, to "somebody in America" for $10,000,000.

He may have to split the collection. Even in America. few invest $10,000,000 at a time in antiques. The late J. Pierpont Morgan might have been a customer. Figures didn't frighten him. But he is gone.

New York Day by Day
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—In E. 86th st., in the Yorkville section, there has sprung up a colorful slice of Munich with a touch of the old but not forgotten days of Cincinnati's Over the Rhine tossed in. The district is German, the tastes Teutonic and the atmosphere provided is attracting gad-abouts.

A group of the pleasant old brownstone fronts have been converted into quaint beer houses—replicas of the Tiroler Bier-Stuberl. There are four in one block bearing such picturesque names of Maxl's Braustuberl, Old Munich and such and gaudily painted in green, yellow and pink.

Waiters named Hans, Fritz and Heinie are dressed in the Tyrolean manner with short leather breeches, green vests with red edging and half socks known as wadenstrümpfe. Ruddy checked Tiroler peasant types strum zithers and guitars.

Proprietors are plump and affable old world types who give every guest a quick handshake and as the evening grows merrier lead them in such songs as the famous "Eins-Zwei, Drei." Remember? And everybody bursts into full-throated melody.

On the menus are listed tempting German dishes, such as weiss wurst, Bismark herring, rollmops, bratwurst knackwurst, pigs knuckles and sauerkraut, and other savory yum-yums. Beer is the only tipple and it is not much over the proper alcohol content, if any.

It is served from kegs in enormous chilled flagons, fronting over onto the felt mats with the German mottoes. The price is fixed at 50 cents a half-leider and while lacking the old-time alcoholic wallop it is served as good beer should be served.

The places were fashioned with no thought of appealing to any patronage save that in the district. But the color of the dashing fronts began to attract others and in a few weeks a visit to them became "a stunt"—and now they are packed from noon until midnight.

OTHER beer places spring up over town from time to time but they are chiefly those hurriedly prepared to do a rousing business until a padlock clicks. The waiters in some do not wear aprons and keep hats and coats on so when the raiders arrive they just keep on walking.

IN one of the windows of Mr. Saks—the fifth Avenue one, of course—there was a modernistic figure capped by a woman's cloche hat. A gentleman tottered up, took off his glasses, wiped them and took another look. "S'terrible world," he hiccoughed gloomily and hurried away.

HIS wife, according to a New Yorker, seeking to sever the matrimonial knot, smokes a half-dozen cigarettes in bed with her morning coffee. And adds, "Twice she has set the bed on fire." If he doesn't get the divorce, he is at least entitled to something in the way of asbestos in pajamas.

AS dawn faintly pinks Manhattan skies subway trains fill with venerable women with lustreless eyes. Most all are rheumatic, toothless and the sickly gray of the flounder's belly, composing the army of charwomen who make the giant office buildings bright and shining for another rushing day. They are gone with the rising of the sun, having made their creaking way back to top tenement house rooms. The average New Yorker never sees them. Many are mothers discarded by children who, in many instances, could keep them in comfort. They are a part of a big city's economic question mark.

AN enthusiast writes: "New York is the only city I know that does not become uninteresting on the eve of a long journey." And come to think of it, it is odd how dull the place you are about to leave suddenly becomes. You feel sorry for those who are left behind.

ENGLISH weekly and monthly periodicals continue to pout at New York newspapermen. Says one: "Most of the petty scribblers like to call themselves journalists and be referred to as members of the intelligentsia."

I, for one, am not even on the waiting list of the intelligentsia although I have read a book.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DO not believe that any woman can be normal without a baby in her life—her own baby, if possible; if not, some other woman's.

Yes, I know that this aims an awful wallop at our shiny new careers, sisters, and hard-won freedom. But I've had both a baby and a career, and I'm telling you that there's more pleasure and pride and power in one hour of baby than in fifty years of career.

The childless woman may put on a great act, but she's like one of those showy fruits which are a feast to the eye but lack all flavor. The fundamental savor of womanliness is lacking in her. Her spirit has never ripened. She is, for all her fine seeming, a tragic defective.

But babies mean so much hard work and inconvenience!

They do, indeed. They mean, primarily, the inconvenience of marrying some man, if they are to be well born. And that man may prove a disappointment. Well, what of it? Better a disappointing man than no man at all—as long as one has the baby.

I would rather marry the worst possible scamp of a man provided he were healthy, and suffer all manner of unhappiness than go through life childless.

I do not say this in sentimental impulse. I say it with a keen and experienced eye to the main chance. I believed that motherhood is essential to the normal development of every woman. I believe it offers a woman her greatest opportunity and I think that opportunity should be open to every woman.

But not all women have the proper qualities for wives nor do they get a chance to marry.

That is a fact and we can't much longer ignore that fact. In one of his plays Mr. Shaw calls attention to this condition, but contends that it should be no bar against motherhood. He claims that a woman's right to have a child is greater and more sacred than any law or convention.

We have outlawed unmarried motherhood largely for economic reasons. Mothers needed husbands, not because babies born in wedlock are essentially different from babies born without, but because papas can be held responsible for bills, and philanderers can't. But even this condition is passing.

The young mother of today often holds a job—in many cases she supports her idle husband as well as her child. The divorced mother carries on without the aid of a man.

This is not a defense of unmarried motherhood. Unmarried motherhood is always unfortunate. A child needs two parents—a woman needs a man as well as a child. Nevertheless, I suspect that Mr. Shaw's play is prophetic.

Motherhood, after all, is the essential thing. Without it the race cannot go on. Some day we will make it a free and honorable profession for all fine women, regardless of their domestic status.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

"A Fool and His Money"

by HERBERT KAUFMAN

History remembers him in many phases and with many faces. "He changes his name and he changes his game, but the lesson he teaches is always the same."

Deluded France blew half her cash into his Mississippi Bubble. Brooklyn once met him as Mr. Miller and took a sadly recollected course in his five hundred and twenty per cent school of finance.

He is the Pied Piper whom credulous savings delight to follow—the High Priest of False Hope at whose shrine all silly dollars make sacrifice.

Experience has grown hoarse reminding us that every get-rich-quick plan has proved to be a get-poor-quicker one.

Money is not the master of magic but the servant of shrewdness; it is worth exactly as much as the caution with which it is managed. It has a standard value; it is a union laborer toiling at a fixed scale—the prevailing rate of interest.

Whenever a penny can be induced to work overtime, the soundest and sagest intelligence of the country promptly takes it in charge.

The business of banks and capitalists is to obtain the maximum return for their funds. If expert business passes up a scheme, "there's a reason."

A successful investor must have the openest ear and door in the community, otherwise opportunity and he soon part company. When he ceases to believe in possibility, fortune drops his acquaintance.

But possibility and probability are divided by a wide gap. And it is because of the tendency to confuse possibility with performance —promise with delivery, figures with facts, that so many remain in the losers' class and such a limited number on the winning side.

Conservatism is seldom a millionaire. But it is never found in the poor-house.

Failure, the Range-Finder

Failure is a range-finder. Few men have managed to hit a great mark without first missing a lot of little ones. Success is mainly the habit of self-correction. Prominence isn't born in a hurry. Whenever leadership survives, it has justified its performance.

Nobody and nothing can continue to cheat the balance sheet, the target on which all effort finally must score.

If you're not making headway, you're making errors. Find your mistakes or they'll find you. When you believe you've done your best, you've begun to do your worst.

"V" VERSES by Herbert Kaufman
Vim Vigor Victory

You finger Failure's rosary and count the sorry beads
That represent old thwarted hopes and ill-adventured deeds.
Faith urges you to seek anew, but pleads her cause in vain;
She knows the thing you yet might do, the places you could gain.
But you prefer the gloomy role self pity has elected
And in sheer cussedness your mind decides to stay dejected.
The East still daily mends defeat; Chance rides the dawns each morning,
While you maintain that you are beat, and sit apart forlorning.
